Shane Property Purchase Okayed By Commission

A resolution authorizing purchase of the Dr. E. S. Shane building at 137 W. Franklin St. was approved yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners.

The building, directly west of the County Jail, will be used for county offices. The final transaction will be subject to approval by Dr. Shane who maintains his office there.

The Commission's unanimous vote to acquire the Shane building marks the second residential purchase initiated by the county within the last month. A need for more office space for governmental operations has been listed as the reason behind the action.

Last month the solons enacted legislation to purchase the Dr.

Walter Heine residence on E. Mound St. It has been indicated that this site will be used to house an ever-increasing Welfare Department operation.

THE COUNTY lawmakers have agreed to pay $25,000 for the Shane property. The Heine residence, one-time home of Ted Lewis' family, was purchased for $32,500.

According to the solons, the State Welfare Department will pay $22,680 toward the Heine property acquisition, plus $2,320 for remodeling purposes. The county will pay the entire cost of the Shane building.

Terms of the resolution note that the county will assume possession of the Shane site about Dec. 15, or at the time of deed delivery. The purchase will include all curtains, draperies, rods, carpeting, linoleum and window air conditioners.

The local Extension Service has been mentioned as the probable department to use the first floor facilities at the Shane structure. The second floor currently is being utilized as a rental apartment.

In other business, the Commission approved a proposal by the Sparks Roofing Co. of Circleville to repair state sections of the Courthouse roof. The bid was $110.

A bid from Bob Litter Heating & Fuel to provide coal for the Courthouse-Jail boilers was accepted and Carl Riffe of Circleville was hired to trim a tree behind Memorial Hall at a cost of $62.50.

A MOTION to rent a house at the Pickaway County Infirmary grounds was approved. The home will be occupied by Walter Payne for a rental of $50 per month.

Mildred Welsh of Ashville was hired to take care of the ladies restroom at the Courthouse during Pumpkin Show. Her salary will be paid by the Pumpkin Show Committee.

K. Y. Beagle Labeled as Cop Informer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Poor K. Y. His owner figures he's a traitor and police have him tabbed as an informer.

About three weeks ago vice squad detectives raided a gambling operation at an East Side home and arrested several men. They noticed K. Y., a beagle who belonged to the owner.

Detectives went back over the weekend. They heard another operation was under way at the same house. There were no gamblers, no customers.

But they spotted K. Y. trotting through back alleys. The dog stopped like a pointer at one door, sniffed awhile, then barked.

"Come in, K. Y.," said the gambling operator as he opened the door. The dog did. So did detectives Ed Sullivan and John Campbell.

The seven men inside were fined $5 each for illegal gambling.

Police granted K. Y. an informer's immunity. They didn't arrest him for not having a dog's license.

Mississippi State Judge Reverses Stand on Laws

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice who once wrote that the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court school decision "is not the law of the land" now says that federal rulings in civil rights cases are binding in state courts in similar cases.

Justice Tom P. Brady, who had written a pamphlet called "Black Monday," attacking the U.S. court in 1954, ruled Monday that two Negroes who desegregated a Greenville, Miss., park three years ago were denied their constitutional rights.

In a written opinion in the cases against Carroll Bolton and Amye Lee Bynum, Justice Brady said, "Irrespective of how erroneous it may appear, or how odious it is, a decision of the U.S. Supreme Court is still the ultimate in judicial determination and is binding on the tribunals and citizens of the respective states in comparable cases."

The two Negro girls were arrested after they attracted a crowd of white people, then refused to obey police orders to move along.

Greenville Chief of Police W.C. Burnley testified in a lower court the two had a right to use the park and had done nothing wrong but that violence would have occurred if they remained.

The Washington County Court handed down sentences of $100 in fines and 90 days in jail and Circuit Court affirmed the cases.

Pope Departs New York Saying 'God Bless You All'

NEW YORK (AP) — With a "God bless you all!" Pope Paul VI today returned to his "spiritual city" at the end of his history-making bid for peace in the "terrestrial city" of men and their governments.

"We shall never forget this extraordinary hour," he said in farewell. An estimated 3.8 million, the greatest outpouring in metropolitan annals, had acclaimed his to-and-fro passage, from one stirring scene to another.

In the chancelleries of the nations, powerful men weighed the impact of this white-clad wayfarer's impassioned summons to quit war and lay down their arms. So did plain citizens.

"We must make our own the cause of peace," he told a vast host of them, massed under the stars at Yankee Stadium. "Serve it." He quoted his Lord, "Blessed are the peacemakers."

In a swift, day-long round of unprecedented confrontations, with the great and the many of America, with President Johnson, and before the United Nations, he pressed that same urgent exhortation.

"If you wish to be brothers, let the arms fall from your hands," he implored the U.N. General Assembly. He challenged it to make real its noble oath: "No more war, war never again!"

He met also, in brotherly intimacy, with Protestant, Orthodox and Jewish leaders, and both he and they pledged mutual labors in behalf of international conciliation.

Then, before he departed, he stopped off at the World's Fair, and as fireworks lit the air, he declared, "We have offered our prayers to Christ...whose message of peace and concord we have come to proclaim."

Thoughtful statesmen of the world's communities found promise in the dramatic papal mission. "All of us...will draw inspiration from it," said U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, a Buddhist.

It "may incline all states to do their utmost to make this organization a truly universal instrument of peace," said the President of the 117-nation General Assembly, Amintore Fanfani of Italy.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Aero Country Club was closed down by court order two months ago after residents complained it was too noisy and dangerous.

Now, says Mrs. Juanita Moore, youngsters have discovered what fine drag-racing strip an abandoned runway makes.

"We had more peace and quiet when it was an airport," she said.

of the countries, President Johnson, said the Pope's striking personal appeal "may be just what the world needs to get us thinking of how to achieve peace."

Throughout his 14-hour visit, along the packed, meandering miles into the city, in gatherings at St. Patrick's Cathedral and elsewhere, the Pope met a rising clamor of cheers, applause and music.

"Hooray! Hooray!" the throngs shouted. "Long live the Pope!" Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick gauged the total turnout of those who saw the Pope in person at 3.8 million, exceeding the crowds which in the past have saluted returning American heroes along Broadway.

Pope Tells Church Council To Press Quest for Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI came home today from the papacy's first transatlantic pilgrimage, a day-long quest for world brotherhood, and vowed he would "continue to work as much as possible" for peace.

He returned to a red carpet welcome in his see of Rome and said that his striving for world peace was "a fundamental point of our program—that is, of our ministry."

"... We bless all we meet on this difficult but luminous way." The mission that cast the papacy in a new international role seemed to have refreshed the Pope. He did not show fatigue after the lightning 30-hour journey. Instead he had the appearance of being satisfied with a mission accomplished.

He was also thankful. He said in his arrival remarks that "a sentiment of gratitude rises in our heart to the Lord for the good inspiration He gave us to undertake this voyage."

The Roman Catholic pontiff issued a separate "message to the peoples of the world" thanking them for following his trip and promising to seek peace "with all our force."

Forty-five minutes after his American jet airliner landed at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci air-c port, he was back in the Vatican. His limousine drove through St. Peter's Square where several thousand persons lined the route and cheered.

Prelates of the Vatican Ecumenical Council greeted him on the steps of St. Peter's Basilica, and he immediately entered to report to them on his mission.

Speaking in Latin, the pontiff said: "Now more than ever before, we must be workers for peace. The Catholic Church has put upon itself a greater obligation to serve the cause of peace, owing to the fact that, through our voyage, it has solemnly defended the cause."

He said it is not the duty nor the intention of the church to enter the political and economic fields of the temporal world. But he added that it is the duty of the church to help build civil peace by constantly supporting it both morally and on certain occasions materially.

Farm Worker Fatally Injured

Harold Gilbert Reynolds, 31, was killed in an accident at 8:30 a. m. today on the Bernard Ball farm near Commercial Point.

Reynolds was operating a self-unloading ensilage wagon at the farm. According to the information given Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff John Wolford, he became entangled in the beaters of the implement.

The accident was discovered by 17-year-old Samuel Ralph Wright, Route 2, Ashville, who was in the silo at the time. Wright noticed ensilage was not coming through the blower which filled the structure.

He looked out and saw Reynolds apparently trying to unplug the unloading mechanism of the wagon. Minutes later, ensilage again ceased to come through the blower.

AFTER a few seconds wait, Wright again looked out of the silo to investigate and saw Reynolds' body tangled in the beaters.

Deputy Wolford said Reynolds was apparently killed instantly. He was dead when the deputy arrived at the scene.

Reynolds is survived by a wife and six children, the oldest of whom is 8-years-old.

The body was taken to Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville.

Interest Generated Anew For City Development Plan

Interest in a comprehensive development plan for Circleville was generated anew last night when city officials met with a professional planning firm consultant for a review of such a program.

Participating were members of City Council and the City Planning and Zoning Commission. Robert Burgin represented Candeub, Fleissig and Associates — community planning and urban renewal consultants.

The session was devoted mainly to a review of a proposed work program Circleville could follow in establishing a comprehensive plan.

Posing the big question now is whether or not Council will enact legislation authorizing Candeub-Fleissig to proceed with preparation of a plan. A similar proposal by the same firm was tabled last year by the lawmakers.

LAST YEAR'S postponement was attributed mainly to the lack of money to finance the city's share of the cost. Enforcement problems that a comprehensive plan would eventually bring also were considered.

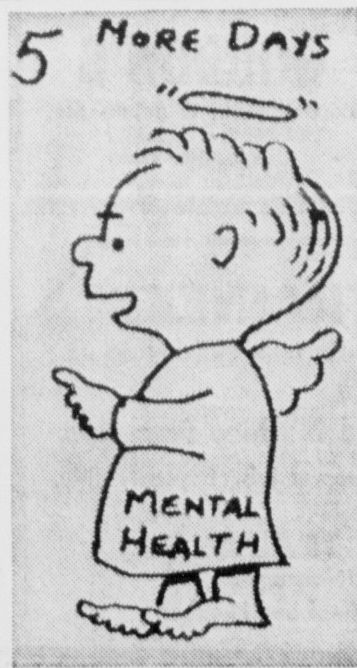

Candeub-Fleissig has offered to prepare a plan for Circleville at a cost of $28,500. Providing state and federal aid could be obtained, the city's actual share would be about $9,800.

Burgin pointed out that the program could be followed un-

Students Ban 'Suggestive' Dance Steps

PROVO, Utah (AP) — You can't swim at Brigham Young University — at least not on the dance floor.

Student officers decided Monday night that the swim, jerk and "other suggestive" dances that cannot conform to standards of the (Mormon) Church will not be permitted.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) founded and operates the school, which has 20,000 students this fall.

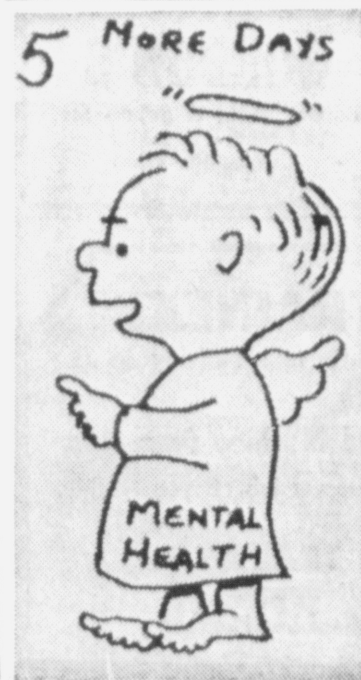

BYU President Ernest Wilkinson, who said provisions of the ban went along with his suggestions to the students, declared that persistent violators would be expelled.

"One of our problems here," Wilkinson said, "is that we have 4,500 new freshmen from nearly every one of the 50 states and unfortunately they learned only these suggestive dances in high school."

Wilkinson announced a BYU program of intramural dancing — similar to intramural athletics.

"It won't be for credit," he said, "but it will have skilled teachers to teach the fine art of social dancing. There will be some competition."

"But it won't be carried on with the vigorous competition of athletics."

End-to-War Plea Heard

Atheist Russia Applauds, Too

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The corridors of the world's forum for peace echo today with the message of a gentle, fragile-looking man in glistening white who, in his own words, came before it to "deliver an appeal to the moral conscience of man."

Pope Paul VI described himself to the 20th anniversary session of the United Nations General Assembly as "the bearer of a message for all mankind." The impact was powerful, many delegates said.

The message was "no more war, war never again." It threw the weight of the Roman Catholic Church, with its half-billion members, behind the search for a formula for disarmament, for relieving the world of the incredible terror of nuclear war.

Delegates of 116 nations — only Communist Albania, European voice of Red China, stayed away — listened with hushed, rapt attention.

The representatives of the two greatest powers on earth, the United States and the Soviet Union, heard the pontiff make an eloquent appeal on behalf of the weak and the poor, the defenseless and the hungry. The Soviet delegates, representing a government whose official policy is atheism, seemed no less warm in their applause than any of the others.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko wore a thin smile as he rose with the others to applaud the entrance of the Pope into the assembly. As the pontiff concluded his half-hour address, Gromyko and the Russians — like Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the Americans and virtually all the other delegates — seemed solemn and thoughtful.

The pontiff, concluding his message, raised his arms in a gesture seeming to embrace all those present. To the echo of a standing ovation, he slowly walked from the podium. No sooner had he disappeared than the delegates buzzed excitedly. The impact of the address seemed obvious.

To some it meant that the United Nations — its prestige often sagging in recent times — had been given an important lift in morale. Some expressed surprise that the Pope was so direct and so specific in his remarks, clearly and eloquently calling for disarmament efforts, for a battle against hunger in the world, for universality of the United Nations itself, and even touching on the delicate subject of birth control. He seemed to speak out clearly against any U.N. declaration which would favor "artificial" birth control.

A 19-year-old Circleville Motorist had his license suspended today in Circleville Municipal Court under the state traffic violation point system.

Less than ten minutes after he left the court room, Jerry Eugene Keaton, 539 E. Union St., was involved in an automobile accident.

Keaton was twice convicted this year of driving while his license was under revocation. Both convictions were in the local court.

Circleville Police indicated Keaton will be cited again for driving while his license was under revocation.

Injured in today's mishap were Bertha Hardesty, 50, and Sharon Jo Knox, 1, passengers in a car driven by Herman Hardesty, 39, 148 Nicholas Drive.

Other motorists appearing on today's completed court docket were:

Edward Crites, 26, Ashville; $15 and costs for failure to yield the right of way.

Berenice Dresbach, 52, Chillicothe; $13 and costs for speeding 73 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Indonesian Rebels Slow Their Activities

Crackdown Starts On Communists in Capital City

SINGAPORE (AP) — Reports from Jakarta today said organized rebel resistance in central Java appears to have collapsed.

The reports, sent through diplomatic channels, said small pockets of rebel forces were still scattered throughout the central part of Indonesia's main island but these were believed to be ill armed and poorly led.

The diplomatic reports said an American businessman, who was not identified, drove the length of Java in the past two days and found very little fighting.

The American reportedly encountered rebel forces but found them quite friendly. He reported that many people he had spoken to in central Java were supporters of Lt. Col. Untung, the leader of the attempt last week to overthrow President Sukarno.

Radio Malaysia reported today that the army forces in control of Jakarta had begun a crackdown on Communists in the capital, arresting 200 Red supporters. Without giving the source of its report, it added that 5,000 people at a rally in Jakarta had demanded that the Indonesian Communist party be banned.

Jakarta Radio announced that Sukarno had called a meeting of his political and military high command Wednesday at his summer palace in Bogor, 40 miles south of the Indonesian capital. The meeting was expected to shed some light on the murky political situation in Indonesia.

Earlier the Malaysian government radio reported that fighting between government forces and pro-Communist rebels had broken out in sections of central Java. The broadcast did not give the source of the information.

The Radio Malaysia report said the rebels controlled several districts, including the Jogjakarta region 250 miles southeast of Jakarta. An earlier Malaysian report said army troops had retaken Jogjakarta after Communist elements captured it.

The army high command reportedly ordered the crack Siliwangi Division into central Java to clear out the rebels. The latter's main strength seemed to come from units of the region's Diponegoro Division.

Another Malaysian radio report said armed Communist units were using guerrilla tactics to harass government troops along the main roads between Jakarta, Bogor and the mountain resort of Bandung, 75 miles southeast of Jakarta.

Stock Prices Still Climb

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recovery gathered increased strength early this afternoon as trading became fast. The rising price trend widened to some of the market wheel-horses which have been relatively neglected during the September rally.

Steels, motors, chemicals and electrical equipments were among the gainers. Electronics and airlines were strong. Rails were down unevenly. Drugs and rails showed slight uptrend.

A number of the volatile issues which were clipped last week by profit taking resumed their recovery of Monday.

Gold mining issues declined. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .9 at 344.9 with industrials up 2.3, rails off .4 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 5.54 at 936.40.

New York Tightens Law On Sale of Goof Balls

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner, says new measures will require anyone handling barbiturates and amphetamines — also called goof balls and pep pills — to keep detailed records and submit annual reports to his department.

The regulations, which will be enforced by the department's Bureau of Narcotic Control, take effect Jan. 1, 1966.

Ike Advises Collegians: 'Always Have Some Fun'

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower received an honorary degree today from Ohio University and told students to "always have some fun" along with their learning.

Vernon R. Alden, president of Ohio University, presented Eisenhower his doctor of humane letters degree during the University's annual president's convocation. Alden also announced plans for a new $7 million convocation center.

Students, faculty and townspeople packed the four-acre university green for the ceremony.

81 Negroes Die in Crash; White Slain

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Enraged Negroes beat a white railwayman to death Monday night after South Africa's worst train disaster.

The headquarters of the South African Railways said the casualty count so far stood at 81 dead and 130 injured. First reports after the derailment of a commuter train had said the death toll might reach 150 with nearly 200 injured.

Negro survivors turned on W. Hartsliel, 20, a signalman and another white railwayman when they rushed to the scene. Hartsliel was battered to death with stones and pieces of wreckage, and the other railwayman was injured badly.

The last three coaches of the crowded rush-hour train left the tracks as the train was entering a suburban station, a preliminary inspection showed.

Screaming passengers spilled out for nearly a quarter mile along the track as the coaches overturned and broke apart.

Under glaring searchlights, doctors and rescuers combed the tangled mass of wood and metal for survivors. The cries of the injured and dying filled the air. Police vehicles took the bodies to a makeshift mortuary.

Arthur Nungester, 1303 S. Pickaway St., told Circleville police today the radio was stolen from his car.

passing through a period of orientation, Eisenhower said they are limited only by the provision that they must not trample on the rights of others."

"Unless we discipline ourselves, as sure as we live someone else will do it for us," he said.

"This matter of self-discipline is part of the process of orienting yourselves."

Telling students they are reaching the age of maturity, Eisenhower had this happy suggestion for them:

"Please, no matter how hard the work, always have some fun every day of your life. If you do not enjoy life, it is not worth living. A life should be a happy one, no matter what the trials."

Eisenhower arrived in one of two helicopters from Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus. He flew to the base from his farm at Gettysburg, Pa. He returned there immediately after the ceremony.

Alden's announcement of the big new building shared the spotlight with the former president.

Alden said Fred Beasley of Athens, an automobile dealer whose chain of agencies is reported to be the largest in the United States, "has pledged to the university a substantial gift" to enable start of construction on the 14,000-seat center.

Alden said the center, to be built across the Hocking River from the main campus, will be used for campus convocations, entertainment programs and athletic events. It will be named for Beasley. Exact amount of the gift was not disclosed.

Alden also announced endowment of a professorship named for Dr. Robert L. Morton, a professor of education at Ohio University from 1918 until his retirement in 1960.

Red Chinese Say U.S. Plane Downed

TOKYO (AP) — Communist Chinese air force planes shot down a U.S. fighter plane over the China mainland today, Peking Radio claimed.

The Chinese language broadcast said the plane was one of four American aircraft that intruded over the mainland. It said the intrusion was into Kwangsi Province in southeast China at 12:28 p.m.

Chinese planes intercepted the aircraft and downed the one, the broadcast said.

New Coal Miner Strike Threatened

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) —The grievance hearing for the last of six coal miners whose firing touched off a 20-day mine strike in three states was scheduled to start today amidst a threat of a new walkout.

Two United Mine Workers Union locals have voted to go back on strike if the six men fired from Hanna Coal Company's Ireland Mine at Moundsville, W. Va., are not rehired by Friday midnight. When the three-state strike ended nine days ago, members of the Ireland local declared a deadline of two weeks. That would take it to next Monday.

The six were discharged for allegedly taking part in an earlier work stoppage. They have denied the charge.

State Aides In Line for Vacation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some state employees with 10 or more years of service have another week's vacation coming under an opinion by Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe.

It comes under the omnibus pay raise law enacted at the recent session of the legislature, effective July 22, which broadened vacation allowances.

The new law allows three weeks' vacation for 10 or more years of service and four weeks for 25 years or more. The old law gives two weeks for 1 to 15 years' service and three weeks for 15 or more years.

Saxbe ruled to Personnel Director Wayne Ward that an employee become entitled to the increased vacation under the new law upon the anniversary date of his employment "notwithstanding the fact that such date may have occurred prior to the effective date" of the law.

Ward said Saxbe's ruling means that any employee who reached 10 or more years or 25 or more years of service on or after July 22, 1964, is entitled to the vacation allowance of the new law.

517 Natchez Negroes Jailed

Leader Orders Fighting Ended

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — Police arrested 106 marching, shouting young Negroes Monday night, then brought back their leader to help control other Negroes who pushed toward some 150 heckling whites.

Negroes filled the street when officers loaded a bus with arrested demonstrators. They shook their fists and yelled to police: "Get those klansmen out of there."

Among the whites who had gathered a half block from a Negro church, where the march started, was E. L. McDaniel of Natchez, Mississippi grand dragon of the United Klans of America.

About 30 minutes later, a police car returned to the area with Charles Evers, NAACP state field secretary who was one of the first arrested.

Evers ordered the demonstrators to go home, saying: "There's no point in causing any trouble. If you want to be free, there's no point in us fussing and fighting and cursing and shouting."

"Those people out there (the whites) don't know any better. They are ignorant, I ask you to go home. Please don't fight in the streets."

Police said a Negro, Hugh Ransom of Natchez, was carrying a loaded .38-caliber revolver. The gun was confiscated, and he was taken away in a police car.

The arrests brought to 517 the number of demonstrators arrested since last Friday. Most were sent to the State Prison Farm at Parchman to await trial on charges of parading without a permit. Some have been released on $200 bonds.

Police Chief J. T. Robinson stopped the march as he had halted similar marches Saturday and Sunday "for parading without a permit."

Evers said the demonstrations would continue, despite a court order against them, until city officials agreed to desegregation demands.

Non-Vehicle Mishaps Cause Seven Injuries

Industrial accidents headed the list of injuries for seven persons who received emergency care in Berger Hospital yesterday. All were treated and released.

Annabelle Woolever, 38, Route 1, Kingston, injured a finger of her right hand on machinery while working at Lincoln Molded Plastics, Inc.

John Stibelton, 22, Route 1, Amanda, an employee of Owens-Illinois, lacerated his left arm on a knife.

Harold Struckman, 43, Route 3, lacerated a finger of his left hand while working for the Goodchild Construction Co.

Pamela Crabtree, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Crabtree, Route 2, fell down stairs at home and injured her right arm.

Dawn Ballou, 20 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Ballou, 138 Park Place, fell out of a chair at home and cut her lower lip.

Jane Hawks, 32, Route 4, lacerated her right arm and wrist on a glass door.

Leann Gross, 17, of 300 Sunset Drive, fell and injured her left ankle.

$3.2 Billion Foreign Aid Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave final congressional approval today to the $3.218 billion foreign aid money bill and sent it to the White House for President Johnson's signature.

The House passed the bill last Friday 204 to 127.

It provides $1.17 billion in military assistance and $2.048 billion for economic aid. The measure also includes $714,188,000 for the Peace Corps, Ryukus Islands and support of international lending institutions, bringing the over-all total to $3,932,188,000.

The Senate-House conference restored $50 million in economic aid cut on the Senate floor on an amendment by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass. It also put back $25 million of an $82 million cut made by the Senate appropriations committee in funds for economic development loans.

The compromise cut out the House ban on aid to nations whose ships go to North Viet Nam and substituted an amendment leaving up to the President any aid cutoff.

The final aid total is $67 million less than the House voted and $142 million below the ceiling on foreign aid set by Congress when it passed the authorization bill several months ago.

The aid total is $241,470, less than President Johnson requested from Congress, and $32 million less than Congress voted for aid last year.

Disposition Of 34 Cases Made by Court

Pickaway County Common Pleas Court closed its books on 34 cases during September.

The monthly docket report showed that an equal number of L.W. cases were filed during the month leaving a total of 219 cases pending action on Oct. 1.

Cases disposed of during September included 16 divorces, five other civil suits and 13 criminal matters. Filed in September were 19 divorce cases, nine civil suits and six criminal cases.

Thirteen of the cases disposed of were tried to court and one civil suit was tried before a jury. One case was a cognovit and default judgment. Nineteen cases were settled or dismissed, 12 of which were divorces.

One new case was filed during September for the Fourth District Court of Appeals. Four cases were already on the docket and there were no dispositions. Therefore a total of five cases are pending action by the appellate court.

Firemen Douse Grain Blaze

Circleville firemen were summoned to the Pickaway Grain Co., Western Ave., at about 12:30 a. m. today when grain chaff ignited in a dryer.

Firemen arrived at the scene shortly after the blaze was discovered and were able to douse the flames and keep them from spreading. They were on the scene for about an hour.

Dick Bowers, manager of the grain company, noted today that damage was estimated at about $2,000 including loss of corn. Cause of the fire was listed as "spontaneous combustion."

Firemen were also called to the corner of Northridge Road and Pickaway Sts. at about 5:30 p. m. yesterday. A pickup truck belonging to Jack Goode of J. S. Goode Nursery caught fire when the carburetor became flooded. No damage was reported.

The reports, sent through diplomatic channels, said small pockets of rebel forces were still scattered throughout the central part of Indonesia's main island but these were believed to be ill armed and poorly led.

The diplomatic reports said an American businessman, who was not identified, drove the length of Java in the past two days and found very little fighting.

The American reportedly encountered rebel forces but found them quite friendly. He reported that many people he had spoken to in central Java were supporters of Lt. Col. Untung, the leader of the attempt last week to overthrow President Sukarno.

Radio Malaysia reported today that the army forces in control of Jakarta had begun a crackdown on Communists in the capital, arresting 200 Red supporters. Without giving the source of its report, it added that 5,000 people at a rally in Jakarta had demanded that the Indonesian Communist party be banned.

Jakarta Radio announced that Sukarno had called a meeting of his political and military high command Wednesday at his summer palace in Bogor, 40 miles south of the Indonesian capital. The meeting was expected to shed some light on the murky political situation in Indonesia.

Earlier the Malaysian government radio reported that fighting between government forces and pro-Communist rebels had broken out in sections of central Java. The broadcast did not give the source of the information.

The Radio Malaysia report said the rebels controlled several districts, including the Jogjakarta region 250 miles southeast of Jakarta. An earlier Malaysian report said army troops had retaken Jogjakarta after Communist elements captured it.

The army high command reportedly ordered the crack Siliwangi Division into central Java to clear out the rebels. The latter's main strength seemed to come from units of the region's Diponegoro Division.

Another Malaysian radio report said armed Communist units were using guerrilla tactics to harass government troops along the main roads between Jakarta, Bogor and the mountain resort of Bandung, 75 miles southeast of Jakarta.

Stock Prices Still Climb

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recovery gathered increased strength early this afternoon as trading became fast.

The rising price trend widened to some of the market wheel-horses which have been relatively neglected during the September rally.

Steels, motors, chemicals and electrical equipments were among the gainers.

Electronics and airlines were strong. Rails were down unevenly. Drugs and rails showed slight uptrend.

A number of the volatile issues which were clipped last week by profit taking resumed their recovery of Monday.

Gold mining issues declined. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .9 at 344.9 with industrials up 2.3, rails off .4 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .54 at 936.40.

Ike Advises Collegians: 'Always Have Some Fun'

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower received an honorary degree today from Ohio University and told students to "always have some fun" along with their learning.

Vernon R. Alden, president of Ohio University, presented Eisenhower his doctor of humane letters degree during the University's annual president's convocation. Alden also announced plans for a new $7 million convocation center.

Students, faculty and townspeople packed the four-acre university green for the ceremony.

81 Negroes Die in Crash; White Slain

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Enraged Negroes beat a white railwayman to death Monday night after South Africa's worst train disaster.

The headquarters of the South African Railways said the casualty count so far stood at 81 dead and 130 injured. First reports after the derailment of a commuter train had said the death toll might reach 150 with nearly 200 injured.

Negro survivors turned on W. Hartsliet, 20, a signalman and another white railwayman when they rushed to the scene. Hartsliet was battered to death with stones and pieces of wreckage, and the other railwayman was injured badly.

The last three coaches of the crowded rush-hour train left the tracks as the train was entering a suburban station, a preliminary inspection showed.

Screaming passengers spilled out for nearly a quarter mile along the track as the coaches overturned and broke apart.

Under glaring searchlights, doctors and rescuers combed the tangled mass of wood and metal for survivors. The cries of the injured and dying filled the air. Police vehicles took the bodies to a makeshift mortuary.

Arthur Nungester, 1303 S. Pickaway St., told Circleville police today the radio was stolen from his car.

passing through a period of orientation, Eisenhower said they are limited only by the provision that they must not trample on the rights of others."

"Unless we discipline ourselves, as sure as we live someone else will do it for us," he said.

"This matter of self-discipline is part of the process of orienting yourselves."

Telling students they are reaching the age of maturity, Eisenhower had this happy suggestion for them:

"Please, no matter how hard the work, always have some fun every day of your life. If you do not enjoy life, it is not worth living. A life should be a happy one, no matter what the trials."

Eisenhower arrived in one of two helicopters from Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus. He flew to the base from his farm at Gettysburg, Pa. He returned there immediately after the ceremony.

Alden's announcement of the big new building shared the spotlight with the former president.

Alden said Fred Beasley of Athens, an automobile dealer whose chain of agencies is reported to be the largest in the United States, "has pledged to the university a substantial gift" to enable start of construction on the 14,000-seat center.

Alden said the center, to be built across the Hocking River from the main campus, will be used for campus convocations, entertainment programs and athletic events. It will be named for Beasley. Exact amount of the gift was not disclosed.

Alden also announced endowment of a professorship named for Dr. Robert L. Morton, a professor of education at Ohio University from 1918 until his retirement in 1960.

Red Chinese Say U.S. Plane Downed

TOKYO (AP) — Communist Chinese air force planes shot down a U.S. fighter plane over the China mainland today, Peking Radio claimed.

The Chinese language broadcast said the plane was one of four American aircraft that intruded over the mainland. It said the intrusion was into Kwangsi Province in southeast China at 12:28 p. m.

Chinese planes intercepted the aircraft and downed the one, the broadcast said.

New Coal Miner Strike Threatened

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The grievance hearing for the last of six coal miners whose firing touched off a 20-day mine strike in three states was scheduled to start today amidst a threat of a new walkout.

Two United Mine Workers Union locals have voted to go back on strike if the six men fired from Hanna Coal Company's Ireland Mine at Moundsville, W. Va., are not rehired by Friday midnight. When the three-state strike ended nine days ago, members of the Ireland local declared a deadline of two weeks. That would take it to next Monday.

The six were discharged for allegedly taking part in an earlier work stoppage. They have denied the charge.

State Aides In Line for Vacation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some state employees with 10 or more years of service have another week's vacation coming under an opinion by Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe.

It comes under the omnibus pay raise law enacted at the recent session of the legislature, effective July 22, which broadened vacation allowances.

The new law allows three weeks' vacation for 10 or more years of service and four weeks for 25 years or more. The old law gives two weeks for 1 to 15 years' service and three weeks for 15 or more years.

Saxbe ruled to Personnel Director Wayne Ward that an employee become entitled to the increased vacation under the new law upon the anniversary date of his employment "notwithstanding the fact that such date may have occurred prior to the effective date" of the law.

Ward said Saxbe's ruling means that any employee who reached 10 or more years or 25 or more years of service on or after July 22, 1964, is entitled to the vacation allowance of the new law.

517 Natchez Negroes Jailed

Leader Orders Fighting Ended

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — Police arrested 106 marching, shouting young Negroes Monday night, then brought back their leader to help control other Negroes who pushed toward some 150 heckling whites.

Negroes filled the street when officers loaded a bus with arrested demonstrators. They shook their fists and yelled to police: "Get those klansmen out of there."

Among the whites who had gathered a half block from a Negro church, where the march started, was E. L. McDaniel of Natchez, Mississippi grand dragon of the United Klans of America.

About 30 minutes later, a police car returned to the area with Charles Evers, NAACP state field secretary who was one of the first arrested.

Evers ordered the demonstrators to go home, saying: "There's no point in causing any trouble. If you want to be free, there's no point in us fussing and fighting and cursing and shouting."

"Those people out there (the whites) don't know any better. They are ignorant. I ask you to go home. Please don't fight in the streets."

Police said a Negro, Hugh Ransom of Natchez, was carrying a loaded .38-caliber revolver. The gun was confiscated, and he was taken away in a police car.

The arrests brought to 517 the number of demonstrators arrested since last Friday. Most were sent to the State Prison Farm at Parchman to await trial on charges of parading without a permit. Some have been released on $200 bonds.

Police Chief J. T. Robinson stopped the march as he had halted similar marches Saturday and Sunday "for parading without a permit."

Evers said the demonstrations would continue, despite a court order against them, until city officials agreed to desegregation demands.

$3.2 Billion Foreign Aid Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave final congressional approval today to the $3.218 billion foreign aid money bill and sent it to the White House for President Johnson's signature.

The House passed the bill last Friday 204 to 127.

It provides $1.17 billion in military assistance and $2.048 billion for economic aid. The measure also includes $714,188,000 for the Peace Corps, Ryukus Islands and support of international lending institutions, bringing the over all total to $3,932,188,000.

The Senate-House conference restored $50 million in economic aid cut on the Senate floor on an amendment by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass. It also put back $25 million of an $82 million bill by the Senate appropriations committee in funds for economic development loans.

The compromise cut out the House ban on aid to nations whose ships go to North Viet Nam and substituted an amendment leaving up to the President any aid cutoff.

The final aid total is $67 million less than the House voted and $142 million below the ceiling on foreign aid set by Congress when it passed the authorization bill several months ago.

The aid total is $241,470, less than President Johnson requested from Congress, and $32 million less than Congress voted for aid last year.

U.N. Corridors
Echo Praise
For Pope Paul

To a Chilean delegate, the Pope's very presence in the United Nations will have "tremendous effect in strengthening the U.N. and the cause of world peace." To a Central African Republic representative, the Pope's mission of peace was a boon to the world organization. To an Ethiopian, the speech "will prove very beneficial," and the appeal for peace will be helpful to a frightened world.

Even the Communists seemed impressed. A Romanian representative expressed regret that the Pope "did not make any mention of the Socialist (Communist) countries."

There were differing interpretations of the pontiff's words on the universality of the United Nations when he urged it to "strive to bring back among you any who have separated themselves." Some said this sounded like an appeal for Red China's entry, others that it meant that the United Nations should open its doors to those who support ideals of peace and brotherhood.

None doubted, however, that the pontiff's appeal was to all nations, to men of all religions and men with none. His frequent gestures of supplication, when he raised his thin, pale hands to his audience, seemed intended for all: Christians, Jews, Moslems, Hindus, Buddhists, the men of many faiths and even the atheists in his audience.

Cardinals of the Pope's entourage, in their scarlet skullcaps and black cassocks with scarlet sashes, sat on either side of the assembly hall flanking the podium.

The assembly rose, applauding, as the pontiff, clad in white cape, cassock and skullcap and red slippers, and wearing a gold chain from which was suspended his golden cross, entered the hall with assembly President Amintore Fanfani of the Pope's Italian homeland and U. N. Secretary - General U Thant.

Thant, a Buddhist from Burma, recalled that he was moved and inspired by the Pope's appeal last year in India for diversion of arms money into the needs of underprivileged nations. As he spoke, the pontiff sat in a high-backed, beige-colored chair, simple but somewhat throne-like, and thoughtfully regarded his audience.

The Pope had come, Thant said, at a "time of grave danger for the peace of the world." And peace was the main burden of the pontiff's message.

The U.N., the Pope told the delegates, is "the last hope of concord and peace." He urged its members to march resolutely along roads to a warless world. The first of those roads, he said, is disarmament.

As he spoke, he gestured lightly but constantly with his hands, sometimes folding them as if in prayer, frequently lifting them high as if in a gesture of brotherhood.

As he came to the subject of arms and nuclear war, the delegates seemed to tense. The Soviet delegates leaned forward in their chairs, as if anxious to catch each word, though they listened with earphones to the Russian translation while the pontiff spoke in French.

"If you wish to be brothers," the pontiff said, again raising his arms in supplication, "let the arms fall from your hands."

Then the U.N. would win the gratitude of all people "relieved as they then will be from the crushing expenses of armaments and freed from the nightmare of an ever-imminent war." Then it would be possible to divert savings from arms into the development of nations.

As never before, he said, this was a time to "appeal to the moral conscience of mankind."

"For the danger comes," the pontiff added, "not from progress nor from science — indeed if properly utilized, these could rather resolve many of the grave problems which assail mankind. No, the real danger comes from man himself, wielding ever more powerful arms, which can be employed equally well for destruction or for the loftiest conquests."

Assembly President Fanfani remarked that the world long would hear the echoes of his words.

U.S. Business
Profits Rocket

NEW YORK (AP) — A fresh flood of profits is sweeping business toward new records.

Early returns show that the summer months continued the upward surge that brightened the first half of the year. Of 104 companies to report so far on their most recent three-months performance, only 21 had slimmer net incomes after taxes than they had in the like period of 1964.

As the third-quarter earnings announcements flow in the rest of this month in increasing volume, signs are strong that the big gains of previous 1965 quarters will be matched. In the first three months of 1965 net profits topped year before figures by 16 per cent. In the second quarter the year-to-year gain was 17 per cent.

The annual rate of $44 billion was reached in profits for the first quarter of 1965 and $44.5 billion in the second quarter. Betting is strong that the rate will have been topped in the third quarter and may mount still higher in the final three months.

Well ahead of the companies reporting so far is mighty American Telephone & Telegraph with a record profit of $445,930,000 in the three months ending August 31, a gain of 8.6 per cent over the $419,629,000 in the 1964 third quarter.

Most of the companies reporting so far have fiscal quarters ending on that same date, and a few close their books on July 31.

Among the big earners already reporting are Sears, Roebuck with $70.5 million profit this year against $70.4 million last summer; Campbell Soup, $14.5 million this year and $14.1 million last. But International Harvester was an exception with $26.9 million in the 1965 quarter against $29.6 million the year before.

Gainers this year include: Douglas Aircraft, with $4 million against $3.6 million; Aerojet-General with $3.2 million against $2.6 million last year and Avco Corporation with $5.9 million against $5.2 million.

Beatrice Foods went to $4.8 million in the 1965 quarter from $4 million in the previous year; Grand Union to $2.5 million

U.S. Urges
World Action
To Get Water

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States called Monday for the mounting of a worldwide cooperative effort to solve the problems of converting salt water to fresh economically and in the shortest possible period of time.

The call was sounded to the world's nations by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who said man's survival is threatened by shortages of drinkable water and that desalting ocean and brackish inland waters offers the best answer.

Udall welcomed on behalf of the United States and President Johnson delegates from 65 countries including the Soviet Union to the first international symposium on water desalination.

He said the week-long technical sessions are designed to bring about an exchange of information and ideas by "the most impressive array of water engineering talent ever assembled in history."

"Nonetheless," Udall said in his prepared remarks, "we hope for more from this conference than a mere exchange of technical information."

Communist Writer Gets OSU Campus Invitation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has taken under advisement a lawsuit by a group of Ohio State University students who contend the school's campus speakers rule denied them their constitutional rights.

The court may never have to answer their appeal but the students may win a victory anyway since Herbert Aptheker, a Communist historian against whom the rule was invoked several times, has been invited to speak on campus Oct. 18.

Since Ann Mayer and other students took their case to court last spring, the university board of trustees has liberalized the rule which gave university President Novice G. Fawcett authority to ban campus speeches by Communists or other known subversives. The rule, as liberalized by a 4-3 vote, now allows campus speeches by anyone invited by "recognized" student organizations, with only faculty adviser approval necessary.

Aptheker has been invited to speak by Students for Liberal Action, it was announced Monday.

The trustees, meanwhile, were accused at a hearing on the student appeal Monday of modifying the speakers rule to avoid a decision by the court.

Attorney Jack G. Day of Cleveland told the court the trustees acted "to evade a decision by the court."

Allen B. Loop, board chairman, reached at his Toledo home, said he could not speak for other trustees, "but for myself I can say the lawsuit had nothing to do with my vote." Loop was one of the four voting to modify the rule.

"I followed the recommendations of the president of the university and supported his position," Loop said, "irrespective of the lawsuit."

Day noted that the trustees are to meet again Oct. 14 and suggested they could overrun their Sept. 14 action if they wished. He said he would suggest this action because the students have a right to have the issue settled in court.

The lawsuit referred to specifically was a request by the students for an injunction to prohibit the university from enforcing the speakers ban. U. S. District Judge Mell Underwood refused them the injunction, prompting the appeal.

The injunction had been sought last spring when Frank Wilkinson, an alleged Communist, was denied a speaking appearance on the campus.

Invoking the rule against Wilkinson and later Aptheker touched off several demonstrations, including an all-night "sleep-in" in the Administration Building.

The group that sparked last spring's demonstrations, the Free Speech Front, voted Monday night to change its name to the Ohio State University Student Union and to seek university recognition. Some members move was approved.

U.S. Business Profits Rocket

NEW YORK (AP) — A fresh flood of profits is sweeping business toward new records.

Early returns show that the summer months continued the upward surge that brightened the first half of the year. Of 104 companies to report so far on their most recent three-months performance, only 21 had slimmer net incomes after taxes than they had in the like period of 1964.

As the third-quarter earnings announcements flow in the rest of this month in increasing volume, signs are strong that the big gains of previous 1965 quarters will be matched. In the first three months of 1965 net profits topped year before figures by 16 per cent. In the second quarter the year-to-year gain was 17 per cent.

The annual rate of $44 billion was reached in profits for the first quarter of 1965 and $44.5 billion in the second quarter. Betting is strong that the rate will have been topped in the third quarter and may mount still higher in the final three months.

Well ahead of the companies reporting so far is mighty American Telephone & Telegraph with a record profit of $445,930,000 in the three months ending August 31, a gain of 8.6 per cent over the $419,629,000 in the 1964 third quarter.

Most of the companies reporting so far have fiscal quarters ending on that same date, and a few close their books on July 31. Among the big earners already reporting are Sears, Roebuck with $70.5 million profit this year against $70.4 million last summer; Campbell Soup, $14.5 million this year and $14.1 million last. But International Harvester was an exception with $26.9 million in the 1965 quarter against $29.6 million the year before.

Gainers this year include: Douglas Aircraft, with $4 million against $3.6 million; Aero-Jet-General with $3.2 million against $2.6 million last year and Avco Corporation with $5.9 million against $5.2 million.

Beatrice Foods went to $4.8 million in the 1965 quarter from $4 million in the previous year; Grand Union to $2.5 million

U.S. Urges World Action To Get Water

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States called Monday for the mounting of a worldwide cooperative effort to solve the problems of converting salt water to fresh economically and in the shortest possible period of time.

The call was sounded to the world's nations by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who said man's survival is threatened by shortages of drinkable water and that desalting ocean and brackish inland waters offers the best answer.

Udall welcomed on behalf of the United States and President Johnson delegates from 65 countries including the Soviet Union to the first international symposium on water desalination.

He said the week-long technical sessions are designed to bring about an exchange of information and ideas by "the most impressive array of water engineering talent ever assembled in history."

"Nonetheless," Udall said in his prepared remarks, "we hope for more from this conference than a mere exchange of technical information."

Accused Arsonist, 16, Faces Mental Exams

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Psychiatric tests will be recommended for a 16-year-old boy who was arrested in an attempt to set a lumberyard fire, police reported.

The boy was arrested Sunday night while setting fire to papers he had stuffed in a rubber tire at the Weather Master Lumber & Supply Co. Detectives said he admitted setting a fire that caused $15,000 damage at Weather Master last week.

Communist Writer Gets OSU Campus Invitation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has taken under advisement a lawsuit by a group of Ohio State University students who contend the school's campus speakers rule denied them their constitutional rights.

The court may never have to answer their appeal but the students may win a victory anyway since Herbert Aptheker, a Communist historian against whom the rule was invoked several times, has been invited to speak on campus Oct. 18.

Since Ann Mayer and other students took their case to court last spring, the university board of trustees has liberalized the rule which gave university President Novice G. Fawcett authority to ban campus speeches by Communists or other known subversives. The rule, as liberalized ed by a 4-3 vote, now allows campus speeches by anyone invited by "recognized" student organizations, with only faculty adviser approval necessary.

Aptheker has been invited to speak by Students for Liberal Action, it was announced Monday.

The trustees, meanwhile, were accused at a hearing on the student appeal Monday of modifying the speakers rule to avoid a decision by the court.

Attorney Jack G. Day of Cleveland told the court the trustees acted "to evade a decision by the court."

Allen B. Loop, board chairman, reached at his Toledo home, said he could not speak for other trustees, "but for myself I can say the lawsuit had nothing to do with my vote." Loop was one of the four voting to modify the rule.

"I followed the recommendations of the president of the university and supported his position," Loop said, "irrespective of the lawsuit."

Day noted that the trustees are to meet again Oct. 14 and suggested they could overrun their Sept. 14 action if they wished. He said he would suggest this action because the students have a right to have the issue settled in court.

The lawsuit referred to specifically was a request by the students for an injunction to prohibit the university from enforcing the speakers ban. U. S. District Judge Mell Underwood refused them the injunction, prompting the appeal.

The injunction had been sought last spring when Frank Wilkinson, an alleged Communist, was denied a speaking appearance on the campus.

Invoking the rule against Wilkinson and later Aptheker touched off several demonstrations, including an all-night "sleep-in" in the Administration Building.

The group that sparked last spring's demonstrations, the Free Speech Front, voted Monday night to change its name to the Ohio State University Student Union and to seek university recognition. Some members move was approved.

Arson Is Suspected In Blazes at School

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The possibility of arson was under intensified investigation by city firemen today following the second major fire within a week at Robinson Junior High School.

Damage was estimated at $10,000 from separate fires in two offices Monday. Most of the damage was caused by smoke. Last Thursday, two science laboratories at the school were destroyed by a $50,000 fire.

Man Formally Accused In Slaying of In-law

CLEVELAND (AP) — Paul Mahovic, 53, has been charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Neva Weingard, 52, in suburban Euclid. Police blamed family problems for the Sunday shooting.

Predicting Quakes

Natural disasters are events no rational person looks forward to, and not many years ago the mere mention of the possibility of a natural calamity was avoided by the more superstitious as asking for trouble.

But modern science is attacking a number of disaster causes to ascertain why they happen, even if it is not yet ready to confront them headon. Improved hurricane warning systems are credited with holding to a minimum loss of life from those storms. The recent widespread hurricane damage in Louisiana and Mississippi — among the worst in the history of those states — took considerably fewer lives than less serious storms.

Now, a group of scientists from the California Institute of Technology, after conducting a computer study of 10,163 earthquakes between 1934 and 1963, contends it can predict the most vulnerable spots in southern California. And it has predicted three quakes. None are in areas which have received strong temblors in recent history.

"No part of California is free from earthquake hazard, and the hazard is less dependent upon nearness to a fault than most people suppose," reported the Cal Tech scientists. Statistically, the study indicates major earthquakes are most likely to occur in active fault (cracks in the earth) zones which have been quiet in recent years.

Californians are well aware they sit on a major earthquake source, the 600-mile-long San Andreas Fault. But now they have the opinion of a computer that the most likely spots are the San Andreas Zone northwest from San Bernardino, the Central Owens Valley and the Banning-Mission Creek zone.

Such predictions will not make residents of those areas feel any easier, but they might result in greater preparations to cope with a major attack by nature. No approach could do more.

Hitting the Wrong Key

It was simply a case of someone hitting the wrong key, but it made startling reading when a teletype story on the federal foreign aid bill came through with all the dollar signs replaced with exclamation points.

It was filled with such figures at 13.4 billion, 1142 million, 1320 million and 1800 million.

The longer one looked at the story, the more apropos the exclamation points seemed. Somehow, government spending is not adequately expressed by the staid old dollar mark. Perhaps it would be a good idea to adopt the exclamation point to write such big money figures.

To make it easier, maybe there should be an increasing number of exclamation points for each astronomical level of money. For instance, two million dollars could be written !2; two billion, !!2, and !!12 would, of course, be two trillion.

That teletypist may have inadvertently led the way to a great breakthrough in modern communications.

What Kind of Bridges?

The recent stories that would have us believe that the Communists, both in Soviet Russia and the satellite countries of eastern Europe, are beginning to favor the consumer are just so much dust in our eyes. The proof of this is to be found in a long analysis of Communist industrial trends made by Aleksander Kutt, the extremely competent economist who works for the Assembly of Captive European Nations in New York City.

Khrushchev talked about the "goulash" economy, but the talk was obviously for propaganda purposes. The stark figures offered by Aleksander Kutt make for dry reading, but they are inexorable in their meaning. Far from meeting their consumer goods targets, both the Seven - Year Plan and the Twenty - Year Plan (the two plans governing the Soviet Union's pattern of growth) have shown a marked deviation in favor of the sort of heavy equipment needed for sustaining a military economy.

Things have been no different under A. M. Kosygin than they were under Khrushchev: the talk has been about favoring consumers, but the realities have not sustained this. As Kutt says, the "consumers share in the added value of Soviet industrial output, including that of the food industry, amounted in 1960 to scarcely over 13 percent and to less than that in 1963. There was a further downturn in 1964 and 1965."

In the satellite countries, where they are now talking of the benefits that will flow to the consumer because of the new "competition" scheduled for light industry, the "goulash economy" has also been conspicuous by its absence.

In 1956 - 1958, during the time of the revolts in Poland and the rise and suppression of the Hungarian revolution, there was a reversal of the trend. But this was just a momentary sop. In 1959 - 62 says Aleksander Kutt, "Poland, which had made the greatest sacrifice in favor of consumer goods in 1956-58, raised its excess growth rate of producer goods output to 74 percent, followed by the 56 percent rate of Bulgaria, a country which had given equal treatment to the producer and consumer goods in the years 1956-1958."

So the martyrdom of man under Communism continues. If the "building of bridges" to the East is to have any real human meaning, the United States and Western Europe should be chiefly interested in trying to bring a little happiness to people who have been starved for consumers' goods for so long. Sad to say, however, our export policies, as they affect eastern Europe and Soviet Russia, seem to be geared to maintaining the current Communist discrimination against consumers.

Republican Representative Glenard Lipscomb of California has recently gone to town on the strategic materials which our Administration "bridge builders" have licensed for export to the Communists. The list includes $3-million worth of chemical wood pulp needed by the Soviets for rayon tire cord, an item which in all probability will be "consumed" by military vehicles, not by pleasure cars; some $2.5 million worth of grinding machines; and a variegated bundle of goods and technical data for use in oil drilling, steel mill construction, aircraft, metal treating, and the making of explosives. The poor consumer won't get much out of this kind of thing.

There are all sorts of rumors of impending shifts at the top in the Iron Curtain countries. Poland's Gomulka is supposedly sick; Hungary's Kadar is said to be on the skids; Moscow's Pravda, the journal of the Communist Party, has lost its editor, Alexei Rumyantsev, a champion of free expression, to a "heart attack" that calls for his retirement to a less embattled post. With the Communists in trouble, the western nations could surely use the bait of consumer goods to gain political concessions that would help the underlying populations of the Iron Curtain lands. But nobody in official circles ever mentions that eight million tons of grain might be paid for by knocking down the Berlin Wall. Instead, we give licenses to exporters of grinding machines, to fashion arms that can be used against us in Vietnam.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A server accident can be as incapacitating in personal and family life as a heart attack or a serious operation.

How gratifying it will be when we can finally say that all heart attacks and cancers are preventable. All medical research is directed towards the eventual hope of eradicating severe diseases.

Yet available accidents continue to take a gigantic toll in expensive, long illnesses. This despite all the warnings and the educational campaigns for safety.

The elderly, particularly, pay the greatest penalty for carelessness. Almost 30,000 accidental deaths in people over 65 occurred last year!

The number of disabling injuries in the same age group is astronomical. Almost 3,000,000 accidents occur yearly in the United States alone.

This is a staggering figure, and highlights the fact that accidents are a greater cause of death and incapacitation than diabetes and pneumonia combined.

The long recovery period from accidents is greater than that of all major diseases combined.

How do most of these accidents happen?

Automobiles, of course, account for the largest number of accidents to the elderly ... almost 40 percent of the total.

Both as a pedestrian and as a driver, the elderly are subjected to danger. Their slower reflexes, poorer vision, possible arthritic changes or other diseases undoubtedly interfere with the coordination they had when they were younger.

Miscellaneous accidents from excessive heat, machinery, fires and drownings are responsible for a small percentage of accidents.

Falls in the home are a common cause of severe injury. Sometimes the elderly are careless and refuse to recognize that their muscular skill, endurance and vision has diminished with age. The bones become more fragile and the gait somewhat more unsteady, both contributing to the dangers of falling.

An analysis of accidental falls in 500 people showed that an astonishing number happened on staircases, when the last step was missed. The absence of handrail and poor illumination were the culprits.

Protective planning in the home, especially in the bathroom and the bedroom, can eliminate the major hot spots of danger.

A careful, well-planned survey is worth the investment of time, far less time that is wasted by even a minor injury.

Small floor mats that are not skidproof, slippery floors covering, rubber shoes on wet pavements are all hazards that can be easily eliminated or corrected.

Toys or household objects left scattered on the floor, and extension cords, invite tripping.

Sharp-edged furniture and unsteady tables must be removed for safety.

Install non-slip strips in bathtubs, and a handrail to help the older person get in and out of the tub.

The elderly are more vulnerable than others to accidents during periods of emotional upset. These are times when they deserve special protection.

The home can be made a place of comfort and safety, rather than a constant threat to the lives and health of older members of the family.

Are You an Old Foggy?

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you an old foggy?

Sometimes you can become one without knowing it. Even your closest friend may not tell you—particularly if they are old fogies themselves.

Nobody is born a foggy. Foggyism is acquired. It just grows—something like moss.

But foggyism isn't altogether a matter of age. By no means. You can see incipient signs of it even in kindergarten, and many a college senior is a full-fledged foggy even before he gets his sheepskin.

Foggyism is characterized by an inelasticity to change. It is indicated more by what one thinks and does than by the number of his years.

Like to try a little test? Here we go. It is a reasonable assumption that you are an old foggy—or in imminent danger of becoming one—if:

You've never fallen in love with a movie star since Mary Pickford was in curls.

At night the only thing you dream about is the problem of your job.

You cannot name at least two of the Beatles and tell what instruments they play.

At the office none of the girls would dare to surprise you with a kiss on your cheek on your birthday.

You never read a new novel or a new poem because you believe all modern writing is trash.

You feel the younger generation is going to hell in a hand-wagon. Whenever a teen-ager passes, you wonder whether he carries a switch-blade knife and is on his way to get a shot of narcotics.

It makes you cranky if birds sing outside your window early in the morning. Don't they realize a man needs his sleep?

It annoys you to see a bunch of kids playing a game of stick-ball in the streets.

You are convinced that all doctors and dentists are robbers, and all politicians are crooks.

Does all this sound like you? If so, have no doubt about it—you're an old foggy. And you're missing a lot of fun in life.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Medicare, a growing population and medical and surgical advances are combining to spark a boom in hospital building.

Many communities are studying both present overcrowding and the prospect of a big jump in patients when medicare becomes operative next July. More people with more money to spend for medical care, and new ways of treating ailments, are putting a strain on present facilities or making them obsolete.

Some cities plan to build new hospitals. Others are moving to expand present ones. Still others are studying designs and equipment that offer more and quicker services, meet doctor and nursing shortages by saving time, and adopt some factory techniques for getting the most efficient use of space. The hospital of tomorrow may resemble a computerized production line.

Plans call for spending $2.5 billion next year for constructing new hospitals or modernizing present ones. This would be $300 million more than the estimated outlay this year. In 1964 spending hit $2 billion, compared with $1 billion back in 1959. Some predict medicare and population growth may push expenditures to $5 billion a year by 1970.

Despite increasing demand for hospital care, neither the number of hospitals nor of beds has grown startlingly since 1955, although the number of admissions has.

The American Hospital Association puts the number of hospitals in 1955 at 6,956, with 1,604,000 beds and 21,073,000 admissions. Last year the number of hospitals was 7,127, with 1,696,000 beds, but 28,266,000 patients were admitted.

Federal funds have helped in some hospital building. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965, nearly $246 million of federal funds was used this way. In the current fiscal year some $303 million is expected to be spent. Medicare could well increase Uncle Sam's generosity.

Among new techniques being installed or planned in many hospitals are computers to be used both for reference information and for diagnosis.

It will all cost money. And for many a community the big question is: where is the money coming from.

According to Parisian author Jean Charles, French school kids perpetrate just as many boners as do our native youngsters. A few examples rounded up by Monsieur Charles: "The horse has four legs, one at each corner." ... A skeleton is a man who has all his bones on the outside and nothing on the inside." ... "The difference between a calf and a cow is that you're a calf for only one year, but you're a cow forever." ... "During the French Revolution a man could be arrested in the morning, tried at noon, and come home the same evening beheaded."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A server accident can be as incapacitating in personal and family life as a heart attack or a serious operation.

How gratifying it will be when we can finally say that all heart attacks and cancers are preventable. All medical research is directed towards the eventual hope of eradicating severe diseases.

Yet available accidents continue to take a gigantic toll in expensive, long illnesses. This despite all the warnings and the educational campaigns for safety.

The elderly, particularly, pay the greatest penalty for carelessness. Almost 30,000 accidental deaths in people over 65 occurred last year!

The number of disabling injuries in the same age group is astronomical. Almost 3,000,000 accidents occur yearly in the United States alone.

This is a staggering figure, and highlights the fact that accidents are a greater cause of death and incapacitation than diabetes and pneumonia combined.

The long recovery period from accidents is greater than that of all major diseases combined.

How do most of these accidents happen?

Automobiles, of course, account for the largest number of accidents to the elderly — almost 40 per cent of the total.

Both as a pedestrian and as a driver, the elderly are subjected to danger. Their slower reflexes, poorer vision, possible arthritic changes or other diseases undoubtedly interfere with the coordination they had when they were younger.

Miscellaneous accidents from excessive heat, machinery, fires and drownings are responsible for a small percentage of accidents.

Falls in the home are a common cause of severe injury.

Sometimes the elderly are careless and refuse to recognize that their muscular skill, endurance and vision has diminished with age. The bones become more fragile and the gait somewhat more unsteady, both contributing to the dangers of falling.

An analysis of accidental falls in 500 people showed that an astonishing number happened on staircases, when the last step was missed. The absence of handrail and poor illumination were the culprits.

Protective planning in the home, especially in the bathroom and the bedroom, can eliminate the major hot spots of danger.

A careful, well-planned survey is worth the investment of time, far less time that is wasted by even a minor injury.

Small floorboards that are not skidproof, slippery floors covering, rubber shoes on wet pavements are all hazards that can be easily eliminated or corrected.

Toys or household objects left scattered on the floor, and extension cords, invite tripping. Sharp-edged furniture and unsteady tables must be removed for safety.

Install non-slip strips in bathtubs, and a handrail to help the older person get in and out of the tub.

The elderly are more vulnerable than others to accidents during periods of emotional upset. These are times when they deserve special protection.

The home can be made a place of comfort and safety, rather than a constant threat to the lives and health of older members of the family.

Are You an Old Foggy?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you an old foggy?

Sometimes you can become one without knowing it. Even your closest friend may not tell you—particularly if they are old fogies themselves.

Nobody is born a foggy. Foggyism is acquired. It just grows—something like moss.

But foggyism isn't altogether a matter of age. By no means. You can see incipient signs of it even in kindergarten, and many a college senior is a full-fledged foggy even before he gets his sheepskin.

Foggyism is characterized by an inelasticity to change. It is indicated more by what one thinks and does than by the number of his years.

Like to try a little test? Here we go. It is a reasonable assumption that you are an old foggy—or in imminent danger of becoming one—if:

You've never fallen in love with a movie star since Mary Pickford was in curls.

At night the only thing you dream about is the problem of your job.

You cannot name at least two of the Beatles and tell what instruments they play.

At the office none of the girls would dare to surprise you with a kiss on your cheek on your birthday.

You never read a new novel or a new poem because you believe all modern writing is trash.

You feel the younger generation is going to hell in a hand-wagon. Whenever a teen-ager passes, you wonder whether he carries a swieth-blade knife and is on his way to get a shot of narcotics.

It makes you cranky if birds sing outside your window early in the morning. Don't they realize a man needs his sleep?

It annoys you to see a bunch of kids playing a game of stick-ball in the streets.

You are convinced that all doctors and dentists are crooks.

Does all this sound like you? If so, have no doubt about it—you're an old foggy. And you're missing a lot of fun in life.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Medicare, a growing population and medical and surgical advances are combining to spark a boom in hospital building.

Many communities are studying both present overcrowding and the prospect of a big jump in patients when medicare becomes operative next July. More people with more money to spend for medical care, and new ways of treating ailments, are putting a strain on present facilities or making them obsolete.

Some cities plan to build new hospitals. Others are moving to expand present ones. Still others are studying designs and equipment that offer more and quicker services, meet doctor and nursing shortages by saving time, and adopt some factory techniques for getting the most efficient use of space.

The hospital of tomorrow may resemble a computerized production line.

Plans call for spending $2.5 billion next year for constructing new hospitals or modernizing present ones. This would be $300 million more than the estimated outlay this year. In 1964 spending hit $2 billion, compared with $1 billion back in 1959. Some predict medicare and population growth may push expenditures to $5 billion a year by 1970.

Despite increasing demand for hospital care, neither the number of hospitals nor of beds has grown startlingly since 1955, although the number of admissions has.

The American Hospital Association puts the number of hospitals in 1955 at 6,956, with 1,604,000 beds and 21,072,000 admissions. Last year the number of hospitals was 7,127, with 1,696,000 beds, but 28,266,000 patients were admitted.

Federal funds have helped in some hospital building. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965, nearly $246 million of federal funds was used this way. In the current fiscal year some $303 million is expected to be spent. Medicare could well increase Uncle Sam's generosity.

Among new techniques being installed or planned in many hospitals are computers to be used both for reference information and for diagnosis.

It will all cost money. And for many a community the big question is: where is the money coming from.

Red Guerrillas Wipe Out U.S. Army Patrol

Small Unit Hit By Cong Ambush NE of Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong force ambushed a small U.S. Army unit 15 miles northeast of Saigon today and killed or wounded every American, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

Another U.S. Army patrol heard the shooting and rushed to the scene but the Viet Cong had fled. Two guerrillas were reported killed.

The patrol unit that was ambushed from the 1st Infantry Division, was made up of less than 12 men, the spokesman said, but the exact number was not given.

Three other Americans were killed in air missions inside South Viet Nam, the spokesman said.

Elsewhere, two Viet Cong assaults of battalion size were reported.

Heavy losses were inflicted on government troops Monday when the Viet Cong hit a river convoy of five boats in the Mekong Delta 55 miles southwest of Saigon. The convoy drew intense small-arms and automatic-weapons fire from the shore and two of the boats were sunk.

The convoy was on a supply mission to a nearby post.

Another guerrilla battalion attacked and overran a hamlet defended by government troops 110 miles northwest of Saigon, near the Cambodian border. The fate of the hamlet was not known.

The Communists had been operating in small units in recent weeks. A Viet Cong battalion normally numbers about 500 to 600 men.

Government forces claimed 101 Viet Cong killed in two other actions Monday — 70 in the southernmost province of An Xuyen and 31 bodies counted after heavy fighting near the Phu Cu Pass in Binh Dinh Province. "Heavy" government casualties were reported in the Phu Cu fighting.

U.S. authorities charged that Viet Cong guerrillas used children as shields against American gunfire while crossing a stream under surveillance by U.S. Marine aircraft last Friday. The incident occurred during a Marine action near Qui Nhon, 260 miles north of Saigon, authorities said.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman claimed that government forces killed 1,767 Viet Cong last week while only 229 South Vietnamese were killed.

U.S. military officials announced the number of American military personnel in South Viet Nam totaled 131,700 as of Sept. 30. They said this included 75,600 Army, 5,830 Navy, 36,900 Marines, 13,100 Air Force and 270 Coast Guard.

There has been speculation here that the continuing buildup of American military strength may go as high as 200,000 men by the end of the year. Officials decline to comment on this.

Two American crewmen died in the crash of an Army helicopter hit by ground fire in Binh Dinh Province, 270 miles northeast of Saigon. The helicopter was acting as a forward air controller for an Air Force jet bombing near An Khe.

Another American was killed in the crash of an F100 Supersonic 215 miles north of Saigon. The cause of the crash was not announced.

In the Phu Cu Pass area of Binh Dinh, about 275 miles northeast of Saigon, South Vietnamese forces beat off an attack Monday on an engineer battalion rebuilding a bridge near the pass.

New Books Are Added At Library

Several new books have been added to the shelves of the Pickaway County Public Library, according to Mrs. Wilmina Wolford, librarian.

New books are being added all the time for everyone's enjoyment, she said. They range from new periodicals and reference books to fictitious novels and historic dramas.

Following is a partial listing of recent additions.

"The Great Discount Delusion" by Walter Nelson; "The Rabbi" by Noah Gordon; "The Making of the President — 1964" by Theodore White; "Now Wait a Minute, Casey!" by Maury Allen; "Fractured English" by Norton Mockridge; "The Looking Glass War" by John Le Carré; "Intern" by Dr. X; "The Man With the Golden Gun" by Ian Fleming; "How Far to Bethlehem?" by Norah Lofts; "Thomas" by Shelley Mydans; "A Gift of Prophecy" by Ruth Dixon; "LBJ Country" by Bill Portfield; "Never Call Retreat" by Bruce Catton; "The Power of Love" by Bishop Fulton Sheen; "Red Spies in the UN" by Pierre Huss; "The ugly Russian" by Victor Lasky; "Fear on Trial" by John Henry Faulk; "My Shadow Runs Fast" by Bill Sands; "How Children Fail" by John Holt; "Shaping Educational Policy" by James Conant; "Raccoons and Eagles" by Polly Redford; "The Art of Survival" by Cord Troebst; "Why Space?" by Martin Caidin; "Principles of Accounting" by H. A. Finney; "A Dictionary for Accountants" by Eric Kohler;

"Introduction to Chemical Engineering" by Bryce Andersen; "Fundamentals of Chemical Engineering" by Charles Thatcher; "Music in the Classic Period" by Reinhard Pauly; "How To Become a Bishop Without Being Religious" by Charles Smith; "Poems That Live Forever" by Hazel Felleman; "Five Plays" by Peter Ustinov; "The Churchill Wit" by Bill Adler; "Hayes of the Twenty-Third" by Harry Williams; "Journal of a Soul" by Dorothy White; "Where's the Rest of Me?" by Ronald Reagan; "The Rockefeller Billions" by Jules Abels; "The Court at Windsor" by Christopher Hibbert; "Since 1900" by Oscar Bark; "The Green Berets" by Robin Moore; "Up the Down Staircase" by Bel Kaufman; "The Night of Camp David" by Fletcher Knebel; "Don't Stop the Carnival" by Herman Wouk; "Is Paris Burning" by Larry Collins; "Those Who Love" by Irving Stone.

Burgin explained that the work elements could be reduced, with a corresponding decrease in program cost resulting. However, he noted that certain elements are required in order to qualify for federal aid.

According to Burgin, it would take his firm about one year to prepare the development plan. He indicated the program would be projected into at least a 20-year period and to the stage when the city anticipated a population of 30,000.

PART of last night's meeting was devoted to a question and answer period. A key inquiry focused on what kind of a program would develop in Circleville once a comprehensive plan was initiated.

As Burgin pointed out, the key objective of a comprehensive development plan is to launch an urban renewal program. This, he said, would depend on what the community wanted and what it could afford.

The consultant also commented on federal aid that could be granted under an approved urban renewal program. Information now available indicates assistance up to 50 per cent.

News of World in Brief

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — A 15-year-old Ashtabula boy died in General Hospital Monday night of a head injury suffered in a sandlot football game.

The victim, Richard Nappi, complained of a headache after returning home from the game and was taken to the hospital. He died shortly after emergency surgery.

The coroner ruled the death accidental resulting from a brain hemorrhage.

Nappi, a sophomore at Ashtabula High School, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nappi.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 30-year-old Steubenville man was taken to Columbus by FBI agents today to await federal grand jury action on a kidnapping charge.

Frank C. Anderson waived a preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Joseph Freedman and was bound over to the grand jury Monday. Bond was set at $10,000.

Anderson, arrested by FBI agents earlier Monday, is charged with kidnaping a minor female and transporting her from Steubenville to Brooke County, W. Va., for immoral purposes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Water levels of Burr Oak Lake and Stonelick State Park Lake will be lowered immediately to clear the way for construction work. State Parks and Recreation Division Chief Melvin J. Rebholz said today.

Burr Oak will be lowered 11 feet so that dredging may begin for construction of a new marina retaining wall and placement of fill for a beach, he said. The project will cost $2.6 million.

New docks will be built at Stonelick which is being lowered three feet for the first phase of a $620,000 improvement project.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John M. Bailey of the Democratic National Committee said today "the realities of political life are not to be found in laws alone. They lie in the way laws are administered."

Bailey spoke to the opening of a two-day meeting of the national committee's special equal rights committee.

He reminded that the equal rights committee had been created to carry out the mandate of the 1964 Democratic National Convention to see to it that "all voters, regardless of race, color, creed or national origin, will have the opportunity to participate fully in party affairs."

The committee met in closed session.

LONDON (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan has postponed a state visit to Britain this month because of "preoccupations" in his own country, Buckingham Palace said.

White and his space partner on Gemini 4, Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt, will make the presentation.

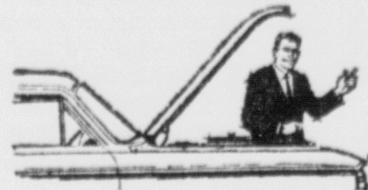

White carried the flag in a pocket of his space suit. He stayed outside the capsule for 30 minutes June 3. White, also an Air Force lieutenant colonel, was the first American to take a stroll in space.

NEW YORK (AP) — A special $15,000 limousine was placed at the disposal of Pope Paul VI for his journey through New York, but he didn't use it.

The pontiff rode in a limousine regularly used by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

A Ford spokesman said the switch was made because a papal representative felt the pontiff should not ride in the open in the chilly weather Monday.

News of World in Brief

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — A 15-year-old Ashtabula boy died in General Hospital Monday night of a head injury suffered in a sandlot football game.

The victim, Richard Nappi, complained of a headache after returning home from the game and was taken to the hospital. He died shortly after emergency surgery.

The coroner ruled the death accidental resulting from a brain hemorrhage.

Nappi, a sophomore at Ashtabula High School, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nappi.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 30-year-old Steubenville man was taken to Columbus by FBI agents today to await federal grand jury action on a kidnapping charge.

Frank C. Anderson waived a preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Joseph Freedman and was bound over to the grand jury Monday. Bond was set at $10,000.

Anderson, arrested by FBI agents earlier Monday, is charged with kidnapping a minor female and transporting her from Steubenville to Brooke County, W. Va., for immoral purposes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Water levels of Burr Oak Lake and Stonelick State Park Lake will be lowered immediately to clear the way for construction work, State Parks and Recreation Division Chief Melvin J. Rebholz said today.

Burr Oak will be lowered 11 feet so that dredging may begin for construction of a new marina retaining wall and placement of fill for a beach, he said. The project will cost $2.6 million.

New docks will be built at Stonelick which is being lowered three feet for the first phase of a $620,000 improvement project.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John M. Bailey of the Democratic National Committee said today "the realities of political life are not to be found in laws alone. They lie in the way laws are administered."

Bailey spoke to the opening of a two-day meeting of the national committee's special equal rights committee.

He reminded that the equal rights committee had been created to carry out the mandate of the 1964 Democratic National Convention to see to it that "all voters, regardless of race, color, creed or national origin, will have the opportunity to participate fully in party affairs."

The committee met in closed session.

LONDON (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan has postponed a state visit to Britain this month because of "preoccupations" in his own country, Buckingham Palace said.

Mrs. Radcliffe Honored At OES Open House

Circleville Chapter No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, honored Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe, president of District No. 23, at an Open House Saturday evening at the Masonic Temple.

The dining room was decorated with red roses, the flower chosen by Mrs. Radcliffe in her year as Worthy Matron of Circleville Chapter. The serving table was decorated with a centerpiece of red roses with white tapers in crystal holders.

Mrs. Roy Groce and Mrs. Elzie Radcliffe presided at the silver services. The refreshment tables were centered with red roses and white tapers with yellow and blue streamers down the center.

Background organ music was furnished during the evening by Mrs. Arthur K. Bowman who accompanied Mrs. Richard Robinson, singing "God Make Me Kind", "Trees," and "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way." Elzie Radcliffe sang "Bless This House" and a parody on "Room Full of Roses," after which he presented a bouquet of red roses to Mrs. Radcliffe. He was also accompanied by Mrs. Bowman.

Several organ selections were given by Marjorie W. Kuntzman, past matron of Concord Chapter No. 520, Frankfort, and deputy grand matron in 1957, the year Mrs. Radcliffe was worthy matron for Circleville Chapter.

Honored guests of the district present were: Marie L. Hamilton, past grand matron; Irene Thornburg, grand warder; Gladys Shepler, grand representative of Nevada; Edna K. West, deputy grand matron. District officers, Alma Noble vice president of Purity Chapter No. 65; Wanda Kitchen, secretary, Evergreen Chapter No. 169; Nellie Hardman, treasurer, Jefferson Chapter No. 300.

Worthy matrons and patrons included: Margaret Remy, Purity Chapter No. 65; Tella Kitchen, Evergreen Chapter No. 169; Lida Meadows, Kingston Chapter No. 411; Eleanor Six, Royal Chapter No. 29; David Six, Royal Chapter No. 29; Betty Liston, Circleville Chapter No. 90; Robert Liston, Circleville Chapter No. 90.

There were also other out-of-city guests present from surrounding areas. Committees for the evening were as follows: Mrs. Arthur Bowman, music; refreshments, Mrs. Dwight Rector, chairman, Mrs. Willard Foreman, co-chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth Dunkle, Mrs. Maxine Elsea, Mrs. Thelma Grant and Mrs. Opal Betz; Mrs. Edith Muse and Mrs. Pauline Cook, decorations; Mrs. Betty Liston, invitations; Mrs. Gladys Shepler, gifts; Miss Marie L. Hamilton, hostess; Miss Elma Rains and Miss Katherine Mead, pin-ons; Mrs. Geneva Brink and Mrs. Mildred Kuhn, registration.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Margaret Johnson and Mrs. Elmer Yeatts.

Refreshments were served to 18 members and one guest. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Dwight L. Steele. Mrs. Barton Deming and Mrs. Frank Kline will assist.

Try Make-Up For New Look

MAKE-UP IDEA — Try applying complexion make-up cleverly so you can focus attention on your eyes. For a new look fill in facial triangle with light make-up. As shown above, the peak of the pyramid is at your chin while the base stretches across your forehead.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Feel the need for a change of face?

You can achieve one, says Fran Friedman, beauty consultant for a well-known cosmetic company, by applying complexion make-up cleverly so it focusses attention on your eyes.

To do this, you have to use your imagination to draw an inverted triangle on your face — like an upside-down pyramid. The peak of the pyramid is at your chin, while the base stretches across your forehead.

Use light tints of make-up to emphasize features inside the triangle. Employ deep shades to cast a shadow along the sides of your face outside of the triangle.

This trick, says Mrs. Friedman, will create a lively look that's clear-eyed and radiant.

To achieve it, assemble the make-up required. You'll need one liquid foundation in a light golden shade, such as ivory, which will be especially good around the eyes for liveliness.

Then choose two tones of pressed powder—a light golden cream beige for inside your facial triangle; a darker golden amber beige for shading outside the triangle.

Apply the light ivory base in dime-sized dots on forehead, nose, cheeks and chin. Blend evenly over your entire face. Wait a moment, then pat your skin with tissue.

Use the golden cream beige pressed powder on cheeks, forehead, chin and nose. Then erase the edges of light color, blending them into the foundation base with circular motions of your fingertips.

Puff the golden amber beige pressed powder along the sides of your face, remembering to follow the lines created by that imaginary triangle.

Without using extra powder, blend the color into the throatline with feathering motions of your puff.

As a final step, wring out a piece of cotton in very cold water and pat it over your face to give your make-up a long-lasting finish.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Don't Argue, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: Melvin and I have been married for three years and this is the first time we have ever had a really violent argument. Well, Melvin loves to shoot, so last year he went deer hunting with three other guys. They drove 600 miles and were gone a week. I stayed home with the baby. This year Melvin says he wants to go again. I told him if he went, I would take a vacation with a girl friend of mine who is single. He didn't like that, so now he's sulking like a little boy. Is this fair? If he wants to hunt deer he can hunt 30 miles from here and get home the same night. And besides, neither Melvin nor I like venison, so what is the point?

MELVIN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No man ever went deer hunting because he liked venison. It's the change of routine and the fun of being with the "other guys" he enjoys. What's good for the deer isn't always good for the doe. So for my dough, let him go hunting. P.S. And I'd never argue with a man who loves to shoot.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young mother with two children, ages 3 and 4. They repeat everything they hear, whether they understand what it means or not. We live in a respectable neighborhood except for this one couple who fight a lot and use very vulgar language. Our children play outside and can hear this couple shouting at each other. Some of the words they use are just terrible, Abby. My husband spent three years in the Navy, and it takes a lot to shock him, but when the three-year-old asked what a certain gutter word meant this morning, he almost fainted. How do we answer these questions?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: For every vulgar word, there is a more refined way of expressing it. Do not get flustered, and don't put off the explanation. Answer the children in the most nonchalant and truthful way you know how. (It doesn't matter whether they understand or not.) P.S. And you might tell this couple to pipe down because your children are getting postgraduate courses in "life" before entering kindergarten.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the use of the title "Doctor" for those who have earned a doctor's degree in fields other than medicine: I have an "R.P.D." — Doctor of Political Science. To be perfectly candid, I enjoy being addressed as "Doctor." It sets me just a bit above the crowd and having earned this distinction, I feel I am entitled to it. He who assumes that everyone with a doctor's title is a physician is an ignoramus. If I am mistaken for a medical doctor, which happens frequently, it's all right with me.

CALL ME DOCTOR

DEAR DOCTOR: It's all right with me, too, Doctor. But if you happen to be in a crowded restaurant and someone yells, "Is there a doctor in the house," you had better head for the nearest exit.

Housewives Aid Aquanauts In Problem of Pancakes

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) —The housewives of the United States are trying to help the aquanauts of the Navy's Sealab 2 overcome their worst catastrophe to date: Their pancakes.

In the underwater laboratory,

JOAN BENNETT, 55, former Hollywood star, poses in her hotel in El Paso, Tex., after getting a "quickie" divorce from producer Walter Wanger across the border in Juarez, Mexico. They were wed for 25 years.

where the air is mostly helium and atmospheric pressure is seven times that at the surface, the aquanauts' flapjacks turned into disaster: scorched on the outside, gummy on the inside.

After the aquanauts reported last week that their pancakes failed, women began to volunteer culinary advice.

"We have been flooded with letters from housewives from coast to coast," a Sealab spokesman reported. "They have all recommended pancake cooking procedures guaranteed to help the divers."

Among the suggestions: Use a greasless cooking pan. Change the ingredients — a pinch more of this, a bit less of that. Lower the heat. Raise the heat. Try frozen batter.

The Navy has been considering the suggestions — although, said a spokesman, housewives don't really realize what aquanaut frycooks are up against.

Because of the added pressure, things cook faster. Heat transfers quickly from the griddle to the pancake. When the outside looks perfect the inside is just an oozy goo.

Navy scientists had already tried greasless pans — perfected for use by persons who can't have grease in their diets — because grease would have smoked up the Sealab atmosphere.

The atmosphere was fine, but the pancakes were incredible and inedible.

Now Navy scientists will give the frozen pancake batter a whirl.

They'll try it first in a topside laboratory duplicating Sealab's conditions. If it works, they'll send it down to the bottom of the sea — and the aquanauts will try again to have pancakes for breakfast.

Using Both Hands Speeds Up Housework

By ELEANOR ROSS

In housework as in other activities, we're all for reducing time and effort, without cutting corners unduly.

So whether you are right-handed or left-handed, try to train your other hand to become a full-fledged helper in keeping your house clean.

Time and motion studies indicate that ambidexterity in some tasks can nearly double efficiency — that is, can cut work time nearly in half.

It does take practice, of course, and the "secondary" hand may never become as efficient as the primary one. However, most adults who have any manual dexterity at all are capable of getting benefit from it.

Efficiency is developed in two ways. The first is in jobs requiring rhythmical motion — where both hands can be doing the same thing at the same time. The second is in jobs requiring real elbow grease — where one hand is normally used at a time so that the dominantly-used hand is able to rest while the other takes over for a while.

The first category includes such tasks as washing large mirrors or windows.

Hold a sponge or cloth in each hand, dip each in thick suds, or in a paste of fine scouring powder and water, and use both to coat the glass in rhythmical swirls. Then let both hands wield damp rinse cloths and dry polishing cloths until the glass sparkles.

The same technique applies to washing walls or any other large area. By using both hands you not only wash a wider area at one time but also save yourself steps and turns.

In the take-turns-with-your-hands department are chores which require energetic attention to smaller areas — such as polishing and waxing furniture.

After washing and drying the wood and applying wax, vigorous rubbing is necessary to achieve a high gloss. The minute your dominant hand tires, send in the other as a "substitute."

Practicing the put-your-other-hand-to-work theory can also make you more efficient in jobs where both of your hands have always worked together — such as the rubbing of dirty spots on clothes you wash by hand. The hand which instinctively does less than its share can be trained to carry a full half of the load.

Aside from the minutes saved, this experiment in efficiency will give a fresh slant on your daily work. It is always fun to learn something new, and this two-handed approach creates a challenge with jobs which have been considered as drudgery.

Ever add a little pumpkin-pie spice to date and nut cookies? If you want to try this, omit any other spice called for and use a half teaspoon pumpkin-pie spice to a two-cup flour recipe.

Use light tints of make-up to emphasize features inside the triangle. Employ deep shades to cast a shadow along the sides of your face outside of the triangle.

This trick, says Mrs. Friedman, will create a lively look that's clear-eyed and radiant.

To achieve it, assemble the make-up required.

You'll need one liquid foundation in a light golden shade, such as ivory, which will be especially good around the eyes for liveliness.

Then choose two tones of pressed powder—a light golden cream beige for inside your facial triangle; a darker golden amber beige for shading outside the triangle.

Apply the light ivory base in dime-sized dots on forehead, nose, cheeks and chin. Blend evenly over your entire face. Wait a moment, then pat your skin with tissue.

Use the golden cream beige pressed powder on cheeks, forehead, chin and nose. Then erase the edges of light color, blending them into the foundation base with circular motions of your fingertips.

Puff the golden amber beige pressed powder along the sides of your face, remembering to follow the lines created by that imaginary triangle.

Without using extra powder, blend the color into the throatline with feathering motions of your puff.

As a final step, wring out a piece of cotton in very cold water and pat it over your face to give your make-up a long-lasting finish.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Don't Argue, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: Melvin and I have been married for three years and this is the first time we have ever had a really violent argument. Well, Melvin loves to shoot, so last year he went deer hunting with three other guys. They drove 600 miles and were gone a week. I stayed home with the baby. This year Melvin says he wants to go again. I told him if he went, I would take a vacation with a girl friend of mine who is single. He didn't like that, so now he's sulking like a little boy. Is this fair? If he wants to hunt deer he can hunt 30 miles from here and get home the same night. And besides, neither Melvin nor I like venison, so what is the point?

MELVIN'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: No man ever went deer hunting because he liked venison. It's the change of routine and the fun of being with the "other guys" he enjoys. What's good for the deer isn't always good for the doe. So for my dough, let him go hunting. P.S. And I'd never argue with a man who loves to shoot.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young mother with two children, ages 3 and 4. They repeat everything they hear, whether they understand what it means or not. We live in a respectable neighborhood except for this one couple who fight a lot and use very vulgar language. Our children play outside and can hear this couple shouting at each other. Some of the words they use are just terrible. Abby, my husband spent three years in the Navy, and it takes a lot to shock him, but when the three-year-old asked what a certain gutter word meant this morning, he almost fainted. How do we answer these questions?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: For every vulgar word, there is a more refined way of expressing it. Do not get flustered, and don't put off the explanation. Answer the children in the most nonchalant and truthful way you know how. (It doesn't matter whether they understand or not.) P.S. And you might tell this couple to pipe down because your children are getting postgraduate courses in "life" before entering kindergarten.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the use of the title "Doctor" for those who have earned a doctor's degree in fields other than medicine: I have an "R.P.D." — Doctor of Political Science. To be perfectly candid, I enjoy being addressed as "Doctor." It sets me just a bit above the crowd and having earned this distinction, I feel I am entitled to it. He who assumes that everyone with a doctor's title is a physician is an ignoramus. If I am mistaken for a medical doctor, which happens frequently, it's all right with me.

CALL ME DOCTOR
DEAR DOCTOR: It's all right with me, too, Doctor. But if you happen to be in a crowded restaurant and someone yells, "Is there a doctor in the house," you had better head for the nearest exit.

Housewives Aid Aquanauts In Problem of Pancakes

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — The housewives of the United States are trying to help the aquanauts of the Navy's Sealab 2 overcome their worst catastrophe to date: Their pancakes.

In the underwater laboratory, where the air is mostly helium and atmospheric pressure is seven times that at the surface, the aquanauts' flapjacks turned into disaster: scorched on the outside, gummy on the inside.

After the aquanauts reported last week that their pancakes failed, women began to volunteer culinary advice.

"We have been flooded with letters from housewives from coast to coast," a Sealab spokesman reported. "They have all recommended pancake cooking procedures guaranteed to help the divers."

Among the suggestions: Use a greaseless cooking pan. Change the ingredients — a pinch more of this, a bit less of that. Lower the heat. Raise the heat. Try frozen batter.

The Navy has been considering the suggestions — although, said a spokesman, housewives don't really realize what aquanaut frycooks are up against.

Because of the added pressure, things cook faster. Heat transfers quickly from the griddle to the pancake. When the outside looks perfect the inside is just an oozy goo.

Navy scientists had already tried greaseless pans — perfected for use by persons who can't have grease in their diets — because grease would have smoked up the Sealab atmosphere.

The atmosphere was fine, but the pancakes were incredible and inedible.

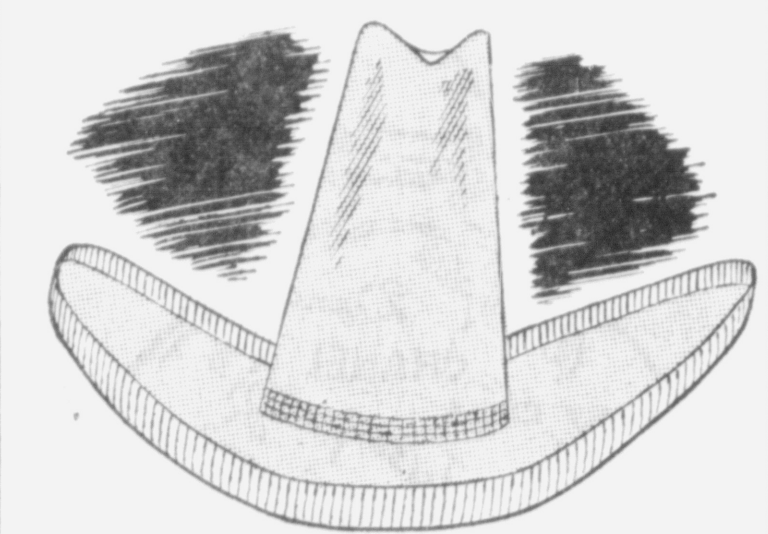

Now Navy scientists will give the frozen pancake batter a whirl.

They'll try it first in a topside laboratory duplicating Sealab's conditions. If it works, they'll send it down to the bottom of the sea — and the aquanauts will try again to have pancakes for breakfast.

Using Both Hands Speeds Up Housework

By ELEANOR ROSS
In housework as in other activities, we're all for reducing time and effort, without cutting corners unduly.

So whether you are right-handed or left-handed, try to train your other hand to become a full-fledged helper in keeping your house clean.

Time and motion studies indicate that ambidexterity in some tasks can nearly double efficiency — that is, can cut work time nearly in half.

It does take practice, of course, and the "secondary" hand may never become as efficient as the primary one. However, most adults who have any manual dexterity at all are capable of getting benefit from it.

Efficiency is developed in two ways. The first is in jobs requiring rhythmic motion — where both hands can be doing the same thing at the same time. The second is in jobs requiring real elbow grease — where one hand is normally used at a time so that the dominant — used hand is able to rest while the other takes over for a while.

The first category includes such tasks as washing large mirrors or windows.

Hold a sponge or cloth in each hand, dip each in thick suds, or in a paste of fine scouring powder and water, and use both to coat the glass in rhythmic swirls. Then let both hands wield damp rinse cloths and dry polishing cloths until the glass sparkles.

The same technique applies to washing walls or any other large area. By using both hands you not only wash a wider area at one time but also save yourself steps and turns.

In the take-turns-with-your-hands department are chores which require energetic attention to smaller areas — such as polishing and waxing furniture.

After washing and drying the wood and applying wax, vigorous rubbing is necessary to achieve a high gloss. The minute your dominant hand tires, send in the other as a "substitute."

Practicing the put-your-other-hand-to-work theory can also make you more efficient in jobs where both of your hands have always worked together — such as the rubbing of dirty spots on clothes you wash by hand. The hand which instinctively does less than its share can be trained to carry a full half of the load.

Aside from the minutes saved, this experiment in efficiency will give a fresh slant on your daily work. It is always fun to learn something new, and this two-handed approach creates a challenge with jobs which have been considered as drudgery.

Ever add a little pumpkin-pie spice to date and nut cookies? If you want to try this, omit any other spice called for and use a half teaspoon pumpkin-pie spice to a two-cup flour recipe.

Information Of Interest To Veterans

(Veterans and their dependents who may have any questions concerning any benefits from the Veterans Administration should bring their questions to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. His office is located in the basement of the County Court House.)

Q-I desire to donate by body after death, to a medical school for student research and study. I know that there is a shortage of such working material and I feel that I will be serving humanity in this way. But, since I am a veteran, I want to know if my widow will be entitled to the usual burial benefits and a United States Flag if I do this?

A-A veteran may donate his body to a medical school, after death, and his widow and children will still be entitled to the burial allowances as well as the flag.

Q-My $10,000 GI Life Insurance is now paid up. However, my wife died some months ago, and I have several thousand dollars in bills, and feel that I have more insurance than I now need. Can I change my insurance to meet this situation?

A-You most certainly can. You may borrow against your insurance, or you may cash in part of it, retaining the amount of protection you consider necessary. May I also suggest that you take immediate action to revise your beneficiary designation?

Q-I retired from the Air Force for disabilities incurred in an aircraft accident in 1958. You told me at that time that no training was available under VA programs. Is this still true?

A-In 1958 it was true that Vocational Rehabilitation benefits were available only for veterans with wartime disabilities. However, training, under recent laws, are available if needed to overcome your peacetime disabilities. We shall check your case out with the VA regional office at once to determine your eligibility.

Q-In checking over my GI life insurance policy, I find no record of who is supposed to get the insurance when I die. How do I find out who is named as the beneficiary?

A-Your original designation of beneficiary is on file in the office where your insurance premiums are paid. However, if you are not certain as to who is named as beneficiaries, I suggest that we execute a new designation form at once. I have these in my files for immediate use.

Q-I was in the service in 1943, and carried $10,000 worth of GI Insurance which I dropped when I was discharged. I have a service connected disability which is rated at zero per cent. Am I eligible for insurance under the new Insurance Law?

A-There is no question in my mind that you will be eligible for insurance under the new law. All the law requires is that you would have been eligible for insurance while in the service, and that you have a service connected disability, even though it may be rated at zero per cent.

Feed Grain Acreage Can Be Grazed

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1965 feed grain and voluntary wheat certificate programs now may graze this land without losing program benefits, Galen D. Mowery, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Pickaway County Committee has announced.

The starting date for such grazing was Oct. 1. This marks the end of the 6-month period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect under the diversion programs.

The chairman stressed, however, that this program relaxation regarding use of the acreage applies only to grazing the feed grain and wheat diverted acres. Hay on such acreages still may not be harvested.

Land diverted under the Conservation Reserve Program may not be grazed or harvested through the whole year.

Pickaway County farms participating in the 1965 feed grain and wheat certificate programs number about 959.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — There comes a day like Monday when one must forgive television its omissions and commissions and regard it as a miracle of communication and a window on the world.

Viewers could, with time and inclination, have stayed close to Pope Paul VI from the moment he stepped from his plane until he returned to it almost 14 hours later, peace mission accomplished.

The three major networks by pooling their staffs and equipment had cameras every place except inside Francis Cardinal Spellman's residence where the Pope spent his brief moments of privacy and rest. As a result, we who stayed at home saw much more of the history-making visit than others, and we had a closeup of the impressive Mass at Yankee Stadium that climaxed the day.

The three networks and their own staffs of correspondents and experts and did a magnificent job of covering the papal mission from start to final blessing. There was a brief break in the all-day coverage for the evening news shows and there was one regular entertainment program that ABC slipped in at a time when the Pope was dining at the cardinal's residence.

The cameras caught some fascinating intimate details — the Pope lightly touching the head of a child during the Mass; President Johnson yanking aside an aide from the TV camera's eye; Bill Moyers, presidential press secretary, stumbling awkwardly in a description of the clothes worn by the First Lady and Luci Baines Johnson when they met the Pope; the Pope's meeting with the Kennedy clan and with the Soviet U.N. delegation, and the Pope, in his farewell to America, struggling to keep his cap on and his collar down in a stiff airport wind.

Each network had an articulate Roman Catholic priest sitting with their anchor men explaining events and helping to identify the clergy surrounding the pontiff. All were tremendously well-informed — ABC, Rev. Edward Heston, NBC's Rev. Robert O'Donnell and CBS, Very Rev. Fulton J. Sheen.

It was a day full of affection, of emotion and of hope. Many of the slack moments in picture coverage were devoted to the network commentators to cautious interpretations of the meaning of some of the Pope's statements. But Frank McGee of NBC summed up his general impression as well as any when he said he thought the Pope's real message was that peace will be found in the hearts of men, not in the strength of nations.

It was a fine job by the networks.

YOUNGEST OPEN HEART — Dr. Donald Flyer, cardiology chief at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, holds 2-week-old John Kennedy as the baby recovers from open heart surgery performed when he was 3 days old, the youngest to survive such an operation. He was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy of Santa Barbara, Calif., Sept. 13. Dr. Flyer said the boy could live a "completely normal" life now, but expectancy without the operation would have been about four months.

Hurricane Claims Due To Be Paid by British

LONDON (AP) — British insurance companies may be responsible for about $100 million in claims for damage caused by Hurricane Betsy in the southern United States last month. Brokers reporting this said the $100 million estimate may be conservative since Lloyds of London keeps its books open for three years. A final figure will not be known until 1968.

Pope Returns To His Home

 Countless others, in this country and abroad, watched via television.

It was the first visit of a reigning pontiff to the Western Hemisphere. The 8,560-mile round trip was the longest papal journey ever taken.

Unlike the Pope's religious pilgrimages last year to the Holy Land and to India, the Western expedition was unique in its purpose and significance.

It put the world's most far-reaching religious leadership directly into the forefront of international affairs, at a crucial moment of history, seething with conflict and fear of nuclear arms.

Yet there was a simple, grave humility in the Pope's demeanor as he moved about the city, asserting the primacy of peace. "I am a man like any of you," he observed from the U.N. rostrum.

But he added forcefully, "We are bearers of a message for all mankind."

Later, as his remarkable excursion neared its close with the mammoth nighttime worship service at Yankee Stadium, he told the more than 90,000 gathered there:

"This is the day which the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad today. This is the day which we have desired for centuries."

Soaring hymns reverberated across the packed steel and concrete tiers. "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty." The vast congregation joined in a litany of prayer.

"That God may grant peace to all peoples and instill trust in place of fear in the community of nations," a lector intoned.

And the multitude responded, "Grant this O Lord, we humbly pray."

Pope Paul, vested now in a cross-embroidered chasuble, led the celebration of Mass on a canopied central altar, banked with greenery and yellow chrysanthemums.

"You must serve the cause of peace," he pleaded in his sermon, "and not make use of it...as a cover for cowardice or selfishness, which refuses to make sacrifices for the common good."

About 3,000 non-Catholic Christians took part in the service. The interdenominational aspect of the Pope's mission also was pointed up in a gathering at Holy Family Church, adjoining the U.N. grounds.

There, the Pope told about 300 Protestant, Orthodox, Catholic and Jewish clergymen, associated with religious centers dealing with the United Nations: "The work of peace is not restricted to one religious belief."

And he pledged "our collaboration" in the mutual efforts to promote reconciliation across the contentious borders of ideologies, nations and races.

Singly and in little groups various religious leaders moved forward to grip the Pope's hand.

Speaking for Protestant and Orthodox communions of the National Council of Churches, Andrew E. Cordier, dean of Columbia University's School of International Relations, said: "This historic meeting gives new promise for the future."

Cordier is an ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren and a former assistant to

The World Today

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
 (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three recent legislative setbacks for President Johnson — one of them a major defeat — have started administration congressional leaders wondering if it isn't time to adjourn while they're still ahead of the game.

After nine months of docility during which key parts of the President's program were enacted with votes to spare, the legislators are showing signs of balkiness. They already want to go home to sound out sentiment at the grass roots level.

Many of them are chafing at repeated Republican taunts that Johnson's first Congress since his election last year has been famous for its willingness to rubber-stamp White House legislation.

There are indications that Republicans, outnumbered more than 2 to 1 in the House and better than 3 to 1 in the Senate, plan to stress the "rubber-stamp" charge in their bid to regain seats in the 1966 congressional elections.

Disclosing plans for a slow-down of the legislative machinery in the next few weeks, a high Democratic leader summed up what apparently is the thinking of many of his colleagues.

"The animals are getting restless," he said. "They want to go home and find out firsthand what their constituents are thinking. A few more setbacks like we've had in the past few days might persuade the President to suggest what that we call it quits while we are way ahead in the win column."

Several major decisions to be made by Congress early this month may determine the adjournment date.

The House will vote soon on a Senate-passed highway beautification bill. This is on the President's "must" list and is a pet project of his wife.

The bill barely cleared the Rules Committee last week. The vote that sent it to the floor was 7 to 6, with two opponents absent.

"Right now we don't have the votes to pass it," a Democratic leader confided. "We may not have them later, but the President wants action."

Behind the highway bill on the House calendar is a Johnson-backed measure to broaden coverage of the minimum wage law. In the face of threatened defeat, its sponsors already have agreed to scale down a proposed wage boost in an effort to attract more support.

Another labor-backed bill is in deep trouble in the Senate. It is a House-passed measure to negate state laws that prohibit union shop clauses in labor contracts. Senate leaders may not be able to break a filibuster aimed at blocking a vote on the bill. The measure is being pushed hard by the administration.

The first sign of an incipient rebellion on Capitol Hill came last week when the House defeated the President's proposal for home rule for the District of Columbia. A plan opposed by the administration was substituted 227 to 174 despite compromise offers by the administration.

The defeat was more galling for the President because it took a lot of White House arm-twisting to persuade 218 House members to sign a petition that forced the vote. Many members privately voiced resentment at the pressure tactics.

The House followed that slap at the President with another jolt. Over White House opposition it sent to the Senate by a vote of 370 to 7 a bill to give federal employees a pay raise that would cost $1.5 billion over a two-year period. The President, favoring a more modest increase, described the bill as "disastrous."

While the Senate may try to pick up some of the legislative pieces, the mood of the House is not good. Many members feel that they have done enough for one session and it's time to go home.

If they keep feeling that way, the session may end soon with some major legislation shunted aside as unfinished business for next year.

Pope Returns To His Home

Countless others, in this country and abroad, watched via television.

It was the first visit of a reigning pontiff to the Western Hemisphere. The 8,560-mile round trip was the longest papal journey ever taken.

Unlike the Pope's religious pilgrimages last year to the Holy Land and to India, the Western expedition was unique in its purpose and significance.

About 3,000 non-Catholic Christians took part in the service. The interdenominational aspect of the Pope's mission also was pointed up in a gathering at Holy Family Church, adjoining the U.N. grounds.

There, the Pope told about 300 Protestant, Orthodox, Catholic and Jewish clergymen, associated with religious centers dealing with the United Nations: "The work of peace is not restricted to one religious belief."

Singly and in little groups various religious leaders moved forward to grip the Pope's hand.

Speaking for Protestant and Orthodox communions of the National Council of Churches, Andrew E. Cordier, dean of Columbia University's School of International Relations, said: "This historic meeting gives new promise for the future."

Cordier is an ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren and a former assistant to the U.N. secretary general.

Earlier the Pope's private meeting with President Johnson took place in a 32nd-floor suite of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, where the world's two most influential spiritual and secular leaders talked for 46 minutes.

Afterward, the President introduced Mrs. Johnson, and their daughter, Luci, 18, recently converted to Catholicism.

The President escorted the Pope down the elevator to the street, chatting amiably with him before they said goodbye. Johnson flew back to Washington to watch the Pope's subsequent United Nations appearance on television.

In that address, the Pope called the United Nations "the last hope of concord and peace" in the world, and seemed to imply that it should seek to bring Red China into membership.

"Strive to bring back among you any who have separated themselves," he said. "Act so that those still outside will desire and merit the confidence of all, and then be generous in granting such confidence."

Delegates gave him a standing ovation, before and after he spoke.

He appealed for relations between nations regulated by reason, justice and negotiation, "not by force, nor by violence...your vocation is to make brothers not only of some, but of all people."

Along his 24-mile motorcade into the city, through the residential and commercial sections of Queens and into Manhattan, across the slums of Harlem and into the grandiose hub of Manhattan, rows of humanity shouted and waved.

Around St. Patrick's, 165,000 pushed at the barricades. One woman fainted. Another was knocked down, suffering a broken leg. A policeman fell and cut his head on the pavement.

After welcoming ceremonies inside, the Pope moved back and forth on the terrace, smiling and spreading his arms toward the people. Later, as he rested briefly in the residence of Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, the throng outdoor chanted:

"We want the Pope! We want the Pope!"

At Kennedy Airport, the Pope made a final parting with his American hosts, expressing gratitude at the opportunity to place his petition for peace before the world, as represented by the United Nations.

"God bless America, God bless you all," he said, and walked up the ramp into a Trans World Airlines jet plane, which carried him back to Rome. It left at 11:30 p. m. (EDT).

Two Area Owners Stable Thoroughbreds at Beulah

When Beulah Park opens for the 19-day fall meet, two area owners will be among those having thoroughbreds stabled at the Grove City raceway.

Mrs. Paul Adkins of Circleville will have Bo Menow, and the seasoned campaigner Battle Menow there. William Greene of Orient will have a stable of six, including Buckley Woods, Tommy's Dream, Hy and Gay, Nadees, Stress Hy and Dell War.

Greene's horses have been racing at Randall Park. Mrs. Adkins has had her two horses at River Downs.

Banteel, top performer in the Adkins Stable, has a paralyzed nerve and has not been racing this summer.

WITH the 21st running of the Ohio Championship as the top feature, Beulah Park opens Oct. 9. The fall meet runs through Oct. 30. The Championship, with $10,000 added and at a mile and a sixteenth is scheduled for Oct. 23.

Supporting this traditional attraction, Beulah will offer the $3,500 Chateaugay Handicap for Ohio foals at six furlongs on Oct. 20, the $3,500 Beulah Kindergarten Handicap at six furlongs on Oct. 27 and the Beulah Park Special on Oct. 30 at a mile and a sixteenth with a purse of $4,000.

Each Wednesday of the meeting there will be a race in a marathon series, with the three races at 1 1/4, 1 1/2 and 1 mile with purses increasing as the distance is extended.

Post time weekdays will be 1:30 p. m. and on Saturdays the first race will go to the post at 1 p. m.

When the meeting begins it is expected that about 875 horses will be on the scene so there is every indication that full fields will be the rule in most of the races listed. Beulah offers turf racing as well as on the main oval and these grass contests include sprints at about six furlongs and also at the mile and 70 yard distance.

A strong jockey colony is in prospect headed by Paul A. Ward who rides for Greene. Ward has won more races at Beulah Park than any other rider. Also on hand will be Carlos Marquez who topped the list at the spring meeting.

High-Octane Illini Due To Test OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's improved offense and Illinois' high-octane attack collide headon here Saturday in the Big Ten opener for the Buckeyes.

Illinois has 883 yards in total offense, almost twice as much yardage as the Bucks, who have picked up 445 in two contests.

Fullback Jim Grabowski is the workhorse of the team with 327 yards in 62 tries.

But the Illini are versatile enough and have displayed a fine passing game. Quarterback Fred Custardo has hit 23 of 28 for 332 yards and four touchdowns.

Coach Woody Hayes said his Bucks showed considerable improvement in their 23-21 victory over Washington, compared to the week before, when they bowed to North Carolina, 14-3.

He praised quarterback Arnie Fontes for giving the backfield more speed and indicated the Canton sophomore would see considerable action against Illinois.

"We'll use and need both Don Unverferth and Fontes. I consider both as starting quarterbacks."

Ryan Expected To Guide Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Who will start at quarterback Saturday night for the Cleveland Browns?

That was the question put to Coach Blanton Collier Monday and he answered:

"There is no contest at quarterback. We played Jim Ninowski (against the Eagles Sunday) because Frank Ryan was hurt. He did what we asked him to do. The decision will be made on the basis of Frank Ryan's injury."

Collier's answer indicates Ryan probably will go Saturday against the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Browns coach said Sunday that Ryan could have played in the 35-17 victory over the Eagles but there was no sense putting him into the game because Ninowski was doing a good job.

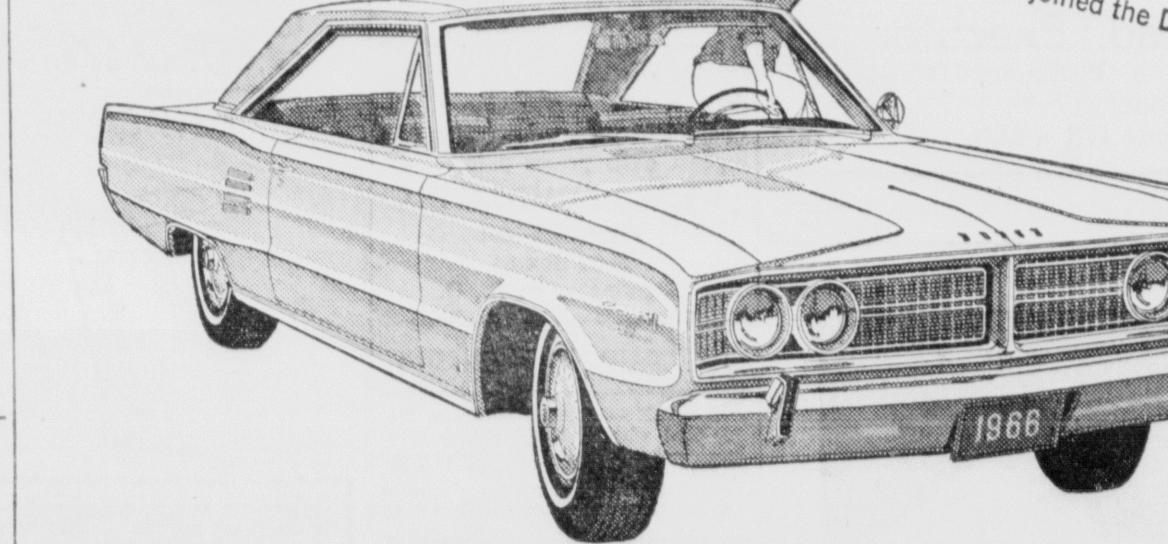

Ryan suffered a bruised foot during a loss to the St. Louis Cardinals Sept. 26.

Massillon Tops AA Football Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mighty Massillon, traditionally a scholastic football power, held first place today in the Associated Press' weekly high school poll.

The unbeaten Tigers, who have won the mythical state championship 10 times, were an overwhelming choice for the top spot by the AP's high school selection board.

Massillon, with the help of eight first-place votes, piled up 142 points, some 63 points better than its nearest Class AA rivals.

Sandusky and Warren shared second place with 79 points apiece. All the teams in the select group sport perfect records (4-0) but that will change Friday night when Massillon tangles with No. 5 rated Niles McKinley in the feature game of the weekend.

Middletown was ranked fourth, with Upper Arlington, Columbus Waterson, Cincinnati Moeller, Steubenville and Zanesville filling out the last five positions.

Fairport Harbor held the top rating among the smaller schools, garnering 80 points with the aid of four first-place ballots. Dover St. Joseph was second followed by Tuscarawas Valley, Johnstown Monroe, Marion Catholic, Millersport, Lake of Stark County, Columbus St. Mary, Lancaster Fenwick and Chauncey-Dover.

Here's the way the AP selection board rates Ohio's Class AA high school football teams: (Points on a 10, 9, 8, etc., basis with first place votes in brackets)

Meet the Tigers

Walter Dille (26) and Tom Wright (35) are a pair of sophomore candidates on the Circleville High School football team. Dille is 5-8 and weighs 141 pounds. The son of Mrs. James Bailey, 127 Pontious Lane, he is a candidate for guard. Wright, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wright, 129 E. Mound St., is a 5-6, 147 pound halfback prospect.

Twyman, Lucas Spark Royals '5'

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Twyman and Jerry Lucas sparked a third quarter surge that powered the Cincinnati Royals to a 116-100 victory over the Detroit Pistons Monday night in the second game of a National Basketball Association exhibition doubleheader at Cobo Arena.

The New York Knicks nipped Baltimore's Bullets 90-89 on John Kerr's layup with six seconds to play in the first game.

With Twyman, Adrian Smith and Wayne Embry doing the scoring, and Jerry Lucas picking off 13 of his 16 rebounds, the Royals shot ahead to stay 84-72 in the third quarter.

Twyman led the Royals with 21 points and Lucas added 16. Player-coach Dave DeBusschere led Detroit with 15 points.

Two Area Owners Stable Thoroughbreds at Beulah

When Beulah Park opens for the 19-day fall meet, two area owners will be among those having thoroughbreds stabled at the Grove City raceway.

Mrs. Paul Adkins of Circleville will have Bo Menow, and the seasoned campaigner Battle Menow there. William Greene of Orient will have a stable of six, including Buckley Woods, Tommy's Dream, Hy and Gay, Nadees, Stress Hy and Dell War.

Greene's horses have been racing at Randall Park. Mrs. Adkins has had her two horses at River Downs.

Banteel, top performer in the Adkins Stable, has a paralyzed nerve and has not been racing this summer.

WITH the 21st running of the Ohio Championship as the top feature, Beulah Park opens Oct. 9. The fall meet runs through Oct. 30. The Championship, with $10,000 added and at a mile and a sixteenth is scheduled for Oct. 23.

Supporting this traditional attraction, Beulah will offer the $3,500 Chateaugay Handicap for Ohio foals at six furlongs on Oct. 20, the $3,500 Beulah Kindergarten Handicap at six furlongs on Oct. 27 and the Beulah Park Special on Oct. 30 at a mile and a sixteenth with a purse of $4,000.

Each Wednesday of the meeting there will be a race in a marathon series, with the three races at 1 1/4, 1 1/2 and 1 mile with purses increasing as the distance is extended.

Post time weekdays will be 1:30 p. m. and on Saturdays the first race will go to the post at 1 p. m.

When the meeting begins it is expected that about 875 horses will be on the scene so there is every indication that full fields will be the rule in most of the races listed. Beulah offers turf racing as well as on the main oval and these grass contests include sprints at about six furlongs and also at the mile and 70 yard distance.

A strong jockey colony is in prospect headed by Paul A. Ward who rides for Greene. Ward has won more races at Beulah Park than any other rider. Also on hand will be Carlos Marquez who topped the list at the spring meeting.

High-Octane Illini Due To Test OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's improved offense and Illinois' high-octane attack collide headon here Saturday in the Big Ten opener for the Buckeyes.

Illinois has 883 yards in total offense, almost twice as much yardage as the Bucks, who have picked up 445 in two contests.

Fullback Jim Grabowski is the workhorse of the team with 327 yards in 62 tries.

But the Illini are versatile enough and have displayed a fine passing game. Quarterback Fred Custardo has hit 23 of 28 for 332 yards and four touchdowns.

Coach Woody Hayes said his Bucks showed considerable improvement in their 23-21 victory over Washington, compared to the week before, when they bowed to North Carolina, 14-3.

He praised quarterback Arnie Fontes for giving the backfield more speed and indicated the Canton sophomore would see considerable action against Illinois.

"We'll use and need both Don Unverferth and Fontes. I consider both as starting quarterbacks."

Ryan Expected To Guide Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Who will start at quarterback Saturday night for the Cleveland Browns?

That was the question put to Coach Blanton Collier Monday and he answered:

"There is no contest at quarterback. We played Jim Ninowski (against the Eagles Sunday) because Frank Ryan was hurt. He did what we asked him to do. The decision will be made on the basis of Frank Ryan's injury."

Collier's answer indicates Ryan probably will go Saturday against the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Browns coach said Sunday that Ryan could have played in the 35-17 victory over the Eagles but there was no sense putting him into the game because Ninowski was doing a good job.

Ryan suffered a bruised foot during a loss to the St. Louis Cardinals Sept. 26.

Eagles Quarterback Is Placed in Cast

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Starting quarterback Norm Snead of the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles will be out of action a minimum of three weeks, Coach Joe Kuharich said Monday.

Snead suffered torn ligaments in his right knee early in Sunday's game with the Cleveland Browns. He is wearing a hip-to-ankle cast which will remain on for two weeks.

RHODES SCHOLAR — Tom Loneragan, 2, Wilmington, Del., looks up in awe at Princeton All American basketball star Bill Bradley, 22, Crystal City, Mo., boarding the liner Queen Mary in New York to sail to England. Bradley, 6 feet, 6 inches, turned down a lucrative pro offer to study at Worcester College, Oxford, for two years on Rhodes scholarship.

CHS Cheerleaders Integral Part Of Football Team

An integral part of every high school football program are the cheerleaders — those vivacious bundles of energy who work equally hard at their task during a game as do the players.

At Circleville, the cheerleaders are captained by Kay McDonald. Others on the squad are Chris Zehner, Joyce Valentine, Susan Thompson, Jane Mader and Melinda Anderson, the Tiger mascot.

Baseball Unit Lists Officers For Next Year

The Circleville Youth Baseball Board of Directors held its annual election of officers last night during a dinner meeting held in the basement of the BPO Elks Lodge.

Re-elected to positions they held during the past year were Paul Mayberry, vice president in charge of Babe Ruth leagues; Forrest Brown, secretary; and Bob Wood, treasurer.

Replacing Richard Bowers as president of the organization is Steve Jones. Don Strawser was named vice president in charge of the Little League, a post held last year by Marvin Payne.

Harry Strawser was elected vice president in charge of the Mosquito League. He replaces Glenn (Peck) Hines.

The outgoing president extended a note of appreciation to the many persons who participated in the program this past year. Nearly 600 area youths were given the opportunity to play supervised baseball because of their help, Bowers said.

It is this group of girls on the varsity squad who try to instill spirit in the student body, at pre-game pep rallies and also in fans during the game.

When the Tigers are winning or playing in a close game, their job is made easier and more rewarding.

BUT at no time is their work more difficult than when trying to arouse a crowd of disheartened fans to a fever pitch.

The coaches and players are among the first to realize the importance of an active and vocal cheering section in arousing team spirit.

The advantage which the "home teams" supposedly enjoy, is due in a large measure to the friendly atmosphere provided by the fans and the cheerleaders.

Friday is homecoming in Tiger Town. Opponents for the Red and Black gridders will be the Washington C. H. Blue Lions.

In the pre-game pep rally and during the game, the Circleville High School cheerleaders will be at their finest.

Dick Sharkey and Art Link, cross-country runners at Michigan State, were teammates on Detroit's Iedford High squad in 1962.

Massillon Tops AA Football Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mighty Massillon, traditionally a scholastic football power, held first place today in the Associated Press' weekly high school poll.

The unbeaten Tigers, who have won the mythical state championship 10 times, were an overwhelming choice for the top spot by the AP's high school selection board.

Massillon, with the help of eight first-place votes, piled up 142 points, some 63 points better than its nearest Class AA rivals.

Sandusky and Warren shared second place with 79 points apiece. All the teams in the select group sport perfect records (4-0) but that will change Friday night when Massillon tangles with No. 5 rated Niles McKinley in the feature game of the weekend.

Middletown was ranked fourth, with Upper Arlington, Columbus Watterson, Cincinnati Moeller, Steubenville and Zanesville filling out the last five positions.

Fairport Harbor held the top rating among the smaller schools, garnering 80 points with the aid of four first-place ballots. Dover St. Joseph was second followed by Tuscarawas Valley, Johnstown Monroe, Marion Catholic, Millersport, Lake of Stark County, Columbus St. Mary, Lancaster Fenwick and Chauncey-Dover.

Kick the dull driving habit. Step out in a lively Dodge Coronet.

Forget all you've seen and heard about '66 cars. Because Coronet is here... sharp, smart and sassy, the greatest thing from Dodge since Year One. Loaded with luxury the higher-priced cars haven't caught on yet.

With a choice of five engines, Slant Six or V8, each one designed to make the walls of Dullsville come tumbling down.

And with a whole slew of standard equipment that used to cost extra. Like an outside rear view mirror. A padded dash for extra safety. Variable-speed electric windshield wipers and washers. Backup lights. Turn signals. Seat belts, two front and two rear.

Enough said to get you really tempted? Now let's get away from the look-alike, drive-alike, first-cousin cars with Coronet for 1966, a car with a lively personality all its own. The Dodge Rebellion wants you!

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my darling husband, Forrest, who passed away
Oct. 4th, 1965.
Two years have passed since that sad day. When the one I loved was called away. God took him home. It was his will. But in my heart he liveth still.

Twins May Not Defeat Dodgers Single Game

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—"Win It All, Twins," the signs here implore, but the feeling is Minnesota may not take a single game from the Los Angeles Dodgers, whose matchless pitching may perpetrate a four-game sweep by the National League champions.

In 1963, the same Dodgers, behind the dazzling pitching of Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and John Podres, stunned the New York Yankees in four straight. Koufax and Drysdale are still around, more menacing than ever. Podres has been replaced on the Big Three by another southpaw, Claude Osteen.

Osteen's 15-15 record for the campaign is a modest one compared to Koufax' 26-8 and Drysdale's 23-12, but Dodger Manager Walter Alston is mindful that when Osteen pitched for Washington in the American League, he defeated the Twins six times without a loss.

The Twins' park at Bloomington, Minn.

Minnesota's Jim (Mudcat) Grant, Jim Kaat and Camilo Pascual do not exactly comprise a sickly trio but not even the most avid American League rooster would put them in the same class with K, D and O.

Pitching, as everybody concedes, is 75 per cent of the game. In the Dodgers' case, it is 90 per cent. Since good pitching usually stops good hitting, it would not cause too much of a stir if the Dodgers won in the shortest time possible.

The Series, 62nd between the rival league champions, opens Wednesday with Drysdale opposing Grant.

The 30-year-old ace of the Twins' staff posted a 21-7 record during the regular season.

Professional odds-makers have put up the right-handed Drysdale an 11 to 10 favorite despite the Twins' home advantage. The same betting gentry rule the Dodgers a 7 to 5 favorite to win the Series and will give 15 to 1 against a Dodger sweep. The odds against a Dodgers sweep in 1963 were 27 to 1.

Power must win it for the Twins. Manager Sam Mele will rely on the heavy hands of Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva, Jimmie Hall, Don Mincher, Bob Allison and Earl Battey to offset the Dodgers' superiority in speed, defense and pitching.

The Twins own the most powerful attack in the American League. They are reminded of the Milwaukee Braves. Yet Dodger pitching held the Braves' power in check. In the final series between the two teams, Drysdale, Koufax and Osteen held the Braves to three runs in as many games.

The Twins hammered 150 home runs in 1965. The Dodgers hit only 78 to rank 20th in the majors. The Twins out-hit the Dodgers 254 to 245. But the Dodgers were matchless at chiseling out occasional runs and making them stand up.

"I keep hearing that we don't score any runs," observed Alston, "but we usually manage to score more than the opposition. We use what you might call a scratch, slide and steal type of attack."

"We may surprise somebody in the World Series," Alston added. "We might change tactics and even hit a home run or two."

Grant has never pitched against the Dodgers. Neither has Drysdale against the Twins but Drysdale has the advantage of World Series experience. The 29-year-old Drysdale defeated the Chicago White Sox in 1959 and shut out the Yankees in '63. This will mark Grant's World Series baptism.

Drysdale last pitched Thursday. He would have worked in Sunday's finale had the pennant not been clinched the previous day. Grant tuned up for the big one with two innings of relief Saturday.

The majority of the experts pick the Dodgers because of their pitching. Alston plans to use just three pitchers. Sam Mele of the Twins may go with four.

Thursday's match-up figures to be Koufax against Kaat, Sandy, virtually certain to be voted the Cy Young Award, denoting crowning baseball's best pitcher, won his 26th game in pitching the pennant clincher against the Braves last Saturday. He set a major league season strikeout mark with 382 and tied another major league record by winning his fourth straight earned run title at 2.06.

Kaat's 1965 record is 18-11.

The third game, first at Los Angeles, next Saturday, will pit Osteen (15-15) against Pascual (9-3).

Texas Rated As Top Team

Nebraska Voted
No. 2 in Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
They are nowhere to be found among college football's Top Ten teams today, but Oklahoma and Wisconsin could be the two most important teams in the country this Saturday.

The Sooners play No. 1-ranked Texas at Austin and the Badgers take on runner-up Nebraska at Lincoln. If either underdog can spring an upset, it could result in wholesale shuffling in the list of college football's elite.

Just ask fourth-ranked Georgia. The Bulldogs were considered just another club before the season started and raised some eyebrows by knocking off national champion Alabama in their opener. That earned Georgia the No. 10 slot last week and then the Bulldogs whipped Michigan, dropping the Wolverines out of this week's Top Ten, and jumped six notches up the ladder.

Texas polled 25 first-place ballots and 368 points in voting by an Associated Press panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Nebraska had 10 first-place votes and 355 points from the panel of 40 experts.

The Longhorns trounced Indiana 27-12 and Nebraska routed Iowa State 44-0 last week.

Third in the poll was Arkansas which stretched the nation's longest winning streak to 15 with a 28-0 victory over Texas Christian.

A first-place ballot was worth 10 points, second nine, etc.

The Top Ten with points, and first-place ballots in parentheses:

- | | |
|------------------------|-----|
| 1. Texas (25) 3-0 | 368 |
| 2. Nebraska (10) 3-0 | 355 |
| 3. Arkansas (1) 3-0 | 285 |
| 4. Georgia (3) 3-0 | 250 |
| 5. Mich. State 3-0 | 219 |
| 6. Purdue (1) 2-0-1 | 182 |
| 7. Notre Dame 2-1 | 172 |
| 8. Southern Cal. 2-0-1 | 108 |
| 9. Miss. State 3-0 | 47 |
| 10. Florida 2-1 | 46 |

Fastest Growing College Sport in Ohio Is Soccer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Soccer, the favorite sport in Europe, has taken hold in Ohio, and in a big way.

It's the fastest-growing game on the Buckeye State's college with eight schools has mushroomed into a 24-team conference.

In the last five years, the number of Ohio colleges playing soccer has almost doubled. Last year alone, Bowling Green, Mount Union, Toledo, Cedarville and Cleveland State, formerly Penn, joined the ranks.

Fan interest is picking up, even though attendance at an Ohio college soccer game averages only 500.

On Sept. 18, when Akron met Brown in the Rubber Bowl, almost 20,000 spectators were in the seats.

Akron has dominated the OCSA with two straight championships and six titles in the last seven years.

Most squads in Ohio carry 35 players, and all expenses, including uniforms, traveling and coaching fees, come out of the school's regular athletic budgets.

In the OCSA, most schools play a 10-game schedule with the league divided into two divisions. Division I generally includes the better varsities and those that play at least six league games.

Akron, Bowling Green, Cleveland State, Denison, Hiram, Kent State, Kenyon, Oberlin, Ohio State, Ohio University, Ohio Wesleyan and Wooster make up the top division.

The second division includes Case, Cedarville, Dayton, John Carroll, Miami, Mount Union, Toledo, Western Reserve, Wilberforce, Wilmington, Wittenberg and Xavier.

Why the sudden surge in soccer?

Ken MacDonald, sports informationist, explains: "The game always had been popular in the East but is growing now in the Midwest and even the Far West."

"With the heavy influx of foreign students on American campuses, the caliber of play has increased. Many of these students have played soccer all their lives."

Akron has had five All-American soccer players in the last 11 years, four of them foreign students.

The game is still a long way from matching football in fan interest, but it looks as though it's here to stay.

Sisler Fired; Redlegs Shop for New Manager

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dick Sisler, fired as manager of Cincinnati's fourth-place Reds, went job-hunting today as Bill DeWitt, president and general manager of the club, promised other team changes for 1966.

DeWitt, disenchanted, first with a team which a week before the season's finale last Sunday was contending for first place, and second, apparently with the way Sisler did his job, announced "with regret" Monday that Sisler would not be rehired. But, added DeWitt, he has been offered "another job" — unspecified — with the Reds' organization.

Sisler, "very, very disappointed," said the other job was not clearly defined during a 50-minute closed session with DeWitt, but he ventured it might be "a scouting position or manager of a minor league club."

In an interview with newsmen, DeWitt showed plainly his chagrin and disappointment in the team and its late-season tumble.

One newsmen reminded DeWitt that coaches Jim Turner and Reggie Otero had submitted their resignations during the final days of the campaign and that DeWitt's dismissal of Sisler now followed.

"What about Jim O'Toole?" — a 17-7 pitcher in 1964 who wound up with a 3-10 record in the season just closed? And Frank Robinson, whose batting prowess slumped to a point where, at one time recently, Sisler publicly called on the fans to "lay off of him?"

"I'm not naming names," replied DeWitt, "but the roster next year will be different." He
